welfth annual roll call of me ican Red Cross again failed ever the top in the city of when four local organiza which had been expected to the city from house to house membership sent out only two ers yesterday

annual roll call the Marion Red Cross chapter is seeking members in the county

terday was the second Sunday local organizations have failed the County Red Cross chapter the said that was promised it was at the Red Cross office A ay Sunday response from the anizations was much better but till inadequate to cover the city ntire ly

Kings Daughters Responded

the drive a week ago Sunday Kings Daughters was the only anization that covered all the ts assigned to it Yesterday the workers that turned out to aid the roll call were both Kings ghters

the other organizations which had promised aid failed to pro even a single worker One fra- group however worked to nt extent in the drive of a week Sunday Two others were not ed in time for the drive of a n Sunday

ighty that the Marion County ers chapter would give up the roll in the city is a bad job was noticed when Miss Margaret I the secretary of the local ter asked that the people of nity be told that the failure of representatives of the Red Cross to them soliciting memberships ents from the failure of local or ers to respond with workers

Ask Voluntary Response

All those who wish to join the R C s will greatly aid the work of organization in the county by ding in their membership fees and contributions to the offices of the al chapter in the Eagles building Even incomplete reports received m from units of the Marion County R C Red Cross chapter situated in the towns in the county it was ered today that response outside the city of Marion has been very ncouraging

The Little unit gained 97 members which was considered by Mrs Dowd as an exceptionally large al when compared to the popula n of the town

LIQUOR SMUGGLING FROM CANADA SHOWS 75 PER CENT BOOST

Traffic Described as "Immense" in Mabel Walker Willebrandt's Annual Report, Says Figures on Canadian Exports Do Not Tell Whole Story

Washington Dec 3—Liquor smuggling from Canada has increased 75 per cent in three years Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general declared today in the justice department's annual report to congress.

For the first time the admission was made on a high government level that the problem of liquor smuggling directly from Canada over the international boundary continues to be unsolved

Mrs Willebrandt described the traffic as immense

She gave congress figures from the Canadian department of trade and commerce to show that liquor valued at $21 497 000 in the dominion was officially cleared for United States—at American prices that would be at least $75 000 000

But the traffic is even greater than the figures indicate according to Mrs Willebrandt She explained

In practice the liquor runner clears his cargo regularly through the Canadian customs before proceeding to evade the United States customs in making delivery

No one would contend that all of the liquor which is smuggled across the northern boundary passes regularly through the Canadian customs

The volume is probably much greater than the records will show Available data indicates that this traffic is immense in its proportions and is increasing

Officially cleared whisky for United States amounted to 1 169 092 gallons in 1925 a considerable increase over the preceding year and in comparison to the smuggling of 6 000 598 gallons in 1925 Mrs Willebrandt pointed out that some of the cleared liquor is short circuited back to Canada to be sold in competition with the government run store

Major Problem

On the other hand she added it is believed a substantial amount of liquor enters the United States across the northern boundary of which the Canadian customs has no record

Mrs Willebrandt said that the prevention of smuggling from contiguous or nearby foreign countries continues to be one of our major problems

Mrs Willebrandt however found that the record of foreign ship seizures would indicate that the smuggling traffic from the high seas through the aid of hovering vessels

PESSIMISM IS FELT ON KING'S CONDITION

Undercurrent of Alarm Prevails Despite Statement of No Immediate Danger

By International News Service

Beneath the surface optimism of the 10 00 a m bulletin from King George's bedside and the statement of the Royal physician Lord Dawson of Penn to International News Service that there is no immediate danger a strong undercurrent of alarm prevailed today over the monarch's records

There is fatal pessimism in official circles

Premier Baldwin called personally at Buckingham palace early in the afternoon to get a detailed statement for the cabinet

The premier's visit to the palace strengthened belief that a council of state will soon be appointed to take over the duties of the crown

For the first time since the king became ill nearly a fortnight ago four doctors were in attendance early today Two additional physicians, one a specialist were called in after the king's condition took a turn for the worse last night

Although the royal patient's fever was lower, his vitality has been impaired by the strain of long illness and complications are threatened along with heart weakness

Drugs were administered to induce sleep and oxygen administered as a tonic

6,000,000 Are Blind
The Nature of Woman
Gandhi's Cow
Coolidge's Speech

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE American Federation of Labor is led by President Green, will join the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness in a national campaign of prevention

There are in the world at least 6 000 000 totally blind To know how terrible the affliction, stop reading for a moment close your eyes and ask yourself what life would be worth if you could never open them

Ignorance increases blindness and disease born of vice and superstition increases it In Egypt today, you may see infants with flies attacking their eyes the mothers afraid to hurt the flies because it is a sin Your grandmother's spirit might live in one of the flies That superstition alone has caused thousands of Egyptian children to lose their sight

Thousands of miserable animals die slowly starving in India, and no one will kill them When the British order police to put suffering creatures out of their misery the population longs to rebel and would if it had the energy

No wonder a handful of meat eating, beer and whisker drinking British can handle and keep down 300 000 000 Hindus.

JUDGE M'NEAL MAY LAND STATE OFFICE

Report Marion Man Has Inside Track For Welfare Director

Rumors current during the last week or more that Judge Louis B McNeal of the Marion county probate court, was a possible appointee as state welfare director by Governor elect Myers Y Cooper were still persistent over the week end

Judge McNeal made application for the appointment more than two weeks ago This morning however, he had received no word from Cooper other than an acknowledgement of receipt of the application

Appointments Pending

Several appointments remain to be made by Cooper before he takes office next month Judge McNeal is among the five or four who are claimed to have the inside track on the remaining jobs

Although several Marion county men are said to be after state jobs under the new administration, Judge McNeal's application for appointment is the only one that has been given any publicity The county republican executive committee is known to have given its indorsement to a number of applicants Officers and members of the committee however have not made public the names of those indorsed

At a meeting several days ago the committee put its ok on several Republicans from this county who are after state jobs The names of the applicants and the positions they are after have been kept secret

FARM RELIEF WILL BE ISSUE IN HOUSE

Haugen May Attempt to Jam Bill Through; Against Compromise Changes

Washington, Dec 3—The ghost of the McNary Haugen farm relief bill cast its shadow over congress at the opening today when Representative Gilbert N Haugen, Republican of Iowa, chairman of the house agriculture committee, indicated that an attempt may be made to jam the bill through in the short session It has been twice passed by congress and twice vetoed by President Coolidge

Returning to Washington in a belligerent mood Haugen threw cold water on compromise proposals by declaring tartly that any bill which got through this session "must be the McNary-Haugen bill or something equally as good."

"Lame Duck" Sessions Rarely Accomplish Much Outside of Routine

GAVELS FALL AT NOON

Opening Proceedings in Both Houses Largely Perfunctory; Galleries Crowded

BY GEORGE R HOLMES
Marion Star Staff Writer

Washington, Dec 3—A lame duck congress with but three months to live came back to Washington today to write the final chapter of its history before shuffling onward down the corridor of time

Crowds that overflowed the galleries saw the final session of the seventieth congress get under way sharply at noon when falling gavels in the hands of Vice President Dawes and Speaker Longworth stopped the election post mortemizing on the floors and drove the members into their seats

The opening proceedings in both houses were largely perfunctory, but this did not serve to keep the throngs away They came out of curiosity to witness the crowds and the drama of the witnesses and losers in the recent election congratulate and commiserate one another and to see the bitter personalities exchanged in the late campaign disappear under the back slapping and hand shaking that always characterizes the opening of a session

Congresses with the seal of death already placed upon them when they meet rarely accomplish a great deal outside of routine business and the final session of the expiring seventieth is expected to prove no exception

That does not mean there won't be plenty of fireworks scattered and otherwise Plenty will be. Thousands of bills and resolutions will be dumped as usual into the groaning legislative hoppers just as though this were a fifteenth young session just starting out on its career rather than an old and dying session, twenty per cent of whose membership retired to chastened meditation because of their recent defeat at the polls

Little Accomplished

The bills will be introduced the speeches will be made, the partisan will arouse and defend, but when the curtain rings down on the session at high noon on the fourth of next March the sum total of accomplishment probably will be found to fit the pattern of the usual appropriation

Exchange Fears Meddling With Money Market; Traders Skim Profits

New York Dec 4—What goes up must come down

Prices slid down the chute like a greased bear today at the opening of the stock exchange

Fears of the convening of a new session of congress, Wall Street traders began skimming profits, preparing to sit in the corner awhile and watch awhile and watch which way the federal legislative wind would blow The atmosphere of wild plunging speculation of recent weeks was entirely absent

The probability of congressional meddling with the money market hung like a dark umbrella over the exchange 'Lame duck' congressmen, with less responsibility to constituencies, were reported ready to introduce various remedial bills in connection with the federal reserve system

A possible federal investigation of the use of credit for speculation also was in prospect

CONGRESS OPENS ITS FALL SESSION

don bills, and the cleaning up of the business left over from last June when congress dropped its work to rush off into the campaign.

Such, at least, is the expectation of the leaders.

The rising sun of a new congress and a new administration, just around the March 4 corner, puts the session beginning today into the shadows.

There is business enough ahead important business, too, but most of it is expected to go over until the new Seventy-first Congress comes into power, fresh from its grant of power at the hands of the electorate.

A special session of the new congress is in prospect soon after March 4. President-elect Hoover promised to call one, provided the expiring session of the Seventieth did not do certain things, and the disposition of the leaders is to let him do it.

Farm Relief Bill

A strong effort will be made at this session to jam through a farm relief bill, but few believe there is any prospect of success. For one thing, the time is too short, considering that congress must appropriate some five billions of dollars for the operation of the government for another fiscal year—with all the debate that these huge appropriations entail.

Then there is the unfinished business of last session. In the Senate, this unfinished business embraces immediate consideration of the Boulder Dam bill. This measure has already passed the house. It was kept from passing the senate last session because of the unyielding and bitter opposition of Senator Ashurst, Democrat of Arizona, who filibustered against it in the closing hours. The tall Arizonan, fresh from re-election last month, still stands in the road of it.

Behind the Boulder Dam fight and awaiting its turn is the bill authorizing the construction of 15 new cruisers and one new airplane carrier for the Navy. This bill also has passed the House. In the Senate it will be attacked by the "little navy" folk, and by the various peace and pacifist organizations. The prospect is, however, that it will be passed, although not without considerable debate.

The Kellogg Pact

But one brand-new matter appears likely to come before the senate. That is the new Kellogg-Briand treaty for the outlawry of war. Its fate at this session is uncertain, as there is some talk of not attempting ratification at all until the new congress comes in after March 4. Senator Borah, who will back it, does not want it to get mixed up with the hodge-podge of other problems.

The senate, as usual provides the log-jam. The house, operating with more efficiency, can start off with a clean slate on the regular business of the session, appropriation bills, etc., but the senate with its cumbersome methods of doing business is in no such position.

In addition to the Boulder Dam and cruiser bills demanding immediate consideration, there is the case of Senator-elect William S. Vare, Republican of Pennsylvania, still to be disposed of.

The voters of Illinois took the Smith case out of the senate's hands by electing Otis F. Glenn to succeed Frank L. Smith, but Pennsylvania decided to let the senate worry along about seating Vare.

In fact, there is more than enough business to occupy congress for ten working weeks without attempting anything startling new in the way of legislation. If congress disposes of the unfinished business now confronting it, and passes the usual appropriation bills allowing the government to breath financially for another year, the leaders will consider it a good job.

Special Session

This would clear the decks for the special session after Mr. Hoover is inaugurated. It is no secret that the president-elect would rather not start his administration with a special session. There does not appear much escape for him, however, for few seriously believe the present session can deal with farm relief or tariff, and the west and the industrial east are united in demanding that these problems be dealt with as soon as possible.

While Secretary of Agriculture Jardine and Senator McNary, co-author of the McNary-Haugen bill, are endeavoring to whip farm program into shape for presentation to this congress, some of the most ardent advocates of relief are opposed to attempting it in the next three months. They say there isn't time enough, and besides they are not keen about sending another bill to Calvin Coolidge. They prefer to wait and see what Herbert Hoover has to propose.

Allowing for the inevitable delays of the first week and the usual two weeks' recess over the holidays, there remains but ten working weeks before the seventieth congress breathes its last.

Unless the leopard has changed its spots, those weeks will be filled with oratory, much waste motion, postmortemizing over the recent election—and not much else besides the routine and unfinished business which must be gotten through somehow.

Mr. James says that Europe recognizes this country's right to build any kind of navy, which you'll admit is very sweet of Europe.

But he and Europe evidently think that Coolidge and the country that elected him should be ashamed of themselves.

Thank Heaven for Mr. James, and the Times prints his stuff. It will stimulate, here, preparation for what Europe would do if it dared.

Fortunately, just now, Europe feels toward this country as those Hindus feel toward Britain.

Or as that able citizen, the late Joseph Pulitzer, felt toward a horse that he rode along the upper Corniche road, back of Menalieu, on the Mediterranean. The horse persisted in dancing on the edge of a precipice, to which a passing hay wagon had forced it.

"Damn you," said Pulitzer almost blind. "I wish I rode bit you on the hand."

That's just how Europe feels toward us, and especially toward Mr. Coolidge, dancing on the brink of war.

TWO INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Eight Others Suffer Minor Injuries in Collisions Near Marysville

Marysville, Dec. 3—Two persons are in the local hospital and eight others are suffering from minor cuts and bruises as the result of three accidents occurring on highways leading out of Marysville over the week-end.

Mrs. Mary Zeigler, 70, of Cincinnati, probably the most seriously injured, is in King's Daughters hospital, suffering from injuries to her back and nervous shock, resulting from a collision between the machine in which she was riding with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sparrow, and another woman from Cincinnati, and the machine driven by William Turner, 60, of this place, about 5 o'clock last night about four miles north of here on the Marysville-Marion road.

Turner, who according to the report, was driving on the wrong side of the road, was taken before Probate Judge Edward Porter, this morning and ordered to pay the ambulance and hospital bills of Mrs. Zeigler and for the repairs on the Sparrow car which was damaged. Other occupants of the car sustained minor bruises.

In Hospital

Charles Cortellsi, Detroit, is in the local hospital with an injured shoulder as a result of a head-on auto crash one and one-half miles north of Marysville on the Kenton rd., at 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Three occupants of the other car figuring in the accident and driven by D. J. Hawk of Toledo escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Cortellsi, according to reports, was driving on the wrong side of the road when the crash occurred. His car caught fire after the collision and was completely destroyed. The Toledo automobile was a total wreck.

Car Skids

W. E. Brooks, Cleveland, is suffering from bruises and cuts, and Mrs. Brooks is suffering from a dislocated hip and two broken ribs, received yesterday when their car skidded and turned over on the Marysville-Marion highway, about two miles north of here. They were later removed to their home. Their machine, a 1926 Jewel sedan, was damaged.

FATHER SPICKERMAN CONDUCTS SERVICES

New Pastor Pledges Support to Civic Enterprises in Opening Pastorate

Pledging his support to all worthy civic interprises, the Rev. Father William J. Spickerman opened his pastorate at St. Mary's Catholic church Sunday morning. Father Spickerman spoke at all three masses.

The new pastor reviewed the past achievements of the parish and spoke of what had been accomplished at St. Mary's. He also cited the religious opportunities offered in the grade and high schools.

Father Spickerman promised his aid in all congregational activities and urged his parishioners to take part in community affairs.

"The Catholic viewpoint is often misunderstood and misrepresented," he said. "If we are good Catholics, we will take an interest in our community and will be model citizens."

Father Spickerman also asked the support of the parish for the athletic activities of St. Mary's High school. He cited the need for recreation among young people and stated his belief that athletics was as good a form of recreation as could be found.

WADE H. M'MAHON NAMED LODGE HEAD

Elected DeMolay Master Councilor; Socials, Minstrels Planned

Wade H. McMahon was chosen master councilor when members of Marion chapter, No 315, Order of DeMolay, held their semi-annual election of officers at a monthly meeting Saturday night at Masonic temple.

Carl Seerist was elected senior councilor, Harold Rider, junior councilor; Henry J. Earley Jr., scribe; and Paul Probst, treasurer.

Arrangements are being made for initiation during the Christmas holidays and for a public installation of officers and reception and dance. Dates for these functions are to be announced later. It was decided to produce a DeMolay minstrel show the latter part of January or in early February.

DOG OWNER MAY FACE DAMAGE CLAIM

Sheep Loss Traced to Raid by LaRue Canine, Warden Says

A sheep loss of $35 last week gave promise today of leading to the first attempt of a board of township trustees to hold the owner of the dog inflicting the damage responsible for the loss.

The case is the outgrowth of a raid made one night last week by a police dog said to be owned by a LaRue man. The dog is claimed to have killed three sheep owned by C. J. Rogers, of Montgomery township.

According to Dale Rhoads, county dog warden, the dog that killed the sheep is owned by the LaRue citizen. The owner, according to Rhoads, refused to give up the dog. Rhoades stated today that under the state dog law the owner of a dog causing damage to livestock can be held responsible for the loss if he fails to give up the dog.

SUSPECT CAPTURED HERE IS RELEASED

Toledo Police Fail to Identify Captive as Man Sought in Stabbing

Andrew Martin, colored, said to be from West Virginia, was released by Sheriff James Deal, Sunday morning, after police officials from Toledo failed to identify him as the man who had stabbed another there early Saturday.

Martin was captured Saturday afternoon as he alighted from a Hocking Valley freight train in the yards here. Sheriff officials here had been advised by police in Toledo to be on the lookout for a negro on the train.

When hailed by Deputy Sheriff George Deal, who with Deputy Sheriff Vane Ireland and P. S. Tabler, captain of the Erie railroad police, who were looking for the suspect, Martin fled with Deal in pursuit.

Martin was finally rounded up in a coal house. As Deal approached Martin attempted to hide a penknife with a four-inch blade. The suspect told the officers that he was on his way from Toledo to his home in West Virginia.

LIQUOR SMUGGLING SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Traffic Described as "Immense" in Mable Walker Willebrandt's Report is diminishing. So far as the seizure of domestic vessels were concerned, however, there was an increase, 370 having been taken by the year ending June 30, as compared to 320 the year before.

"One fact of interest is that out of the domestic vessels captured 174, or 47 per cent were seized in Florida waters or that vicinity," Mrs. Willebrandt said.

Source of Trouble

"The foreign vessels hovering with supplies of liquor off the coast continues to be a source of trouble along the seaboards, east, west and south.

It was stated that the Canadian government has discouraged the use of Atlantic and Pacific ports as bases for this traffic. St. Pierre-Miquelon, in the vicinity of the mouth of the St. Lawrence, was described as the main source of supply and operating base for the high-seas smugglers of the Atlantic.

Twenty-eight foreign vessels were declared forfeited and 22 seized during the year. Mrs. Willebrandt said that the government has begun to get this particular situation in hand.

Cooperation Effective

As to the domestic aspects of enforcement, Mrs. Willebrandt said that cooperation of the treasury and justice departments has been effective. There were 55,702 criminal prosecutions instituted during the year, an increase of 15,020 over last year.

Of the 58,420 cases terminated during the year there were 38,820 convictions. The remainder resulted in acquittals, or were dismissed. Fines, forfeitures and penalties amounted to $7,303,500 and jail and prison sentences aggregated 7,700 years an increase of 48 per cent.

The government obtained permanent padlock injunctions in 3,993 cases, an increase of 568. There were 4,857 jury trials, while guilty pleas were entered in 45,265 cases.

DEMOCRATS WILL OFFER PROGRAM TO CONGRESS

Washington Dec. 3—Democrats in congress will adopt Gov. Al. Smith's suggestion and offer this session a legislative program to carry out the party's pledges at the Houston convention, Rep. John A. Garner of Texas announced today.

Garner is slated to become Democratic leader in the next congress. He is now the ranking minority member of the house ways and means committee.

If you have a skeleton in your closet make no bones of it.

LONG STRUGGLE TO SAVE YOUTH FAILS

Student Dies in Storm as Companions Carry Body Down Mountain

Hanover, N. H., Dec. 3—One Dartmouth student—Herbert J. Young a freshman, of St. Louis—is dead and two others—Samuel Allen, of Akron, Ohio, and R. P. Williams, of Chattanooga, Tenn.—are suffering from frozen feet today as the result of a heroic 41 hour struggle down the snow-covered sides of Mt. Washington to save Young, who had become exhausted. He died in the arms of his companions on the long trail.

The student mountain climbers were caught in a storm near the barren peak of Mt. Washington. They started toward the base. For 41 hours they struggled through heavy wet snow two feet deep, half blinded by the swirling snow. There were seven parties comprising 60 Dartmouth students on the mountain for the holiday vacation but the group of which Young was a member was the only unit to meet with disaster.

Young had begged his fellow students to allow him to lie down in the snow and sleep but they realized that his request meant certain death and they kept pounding and punching him to keep him awake.

On their way down the mountain a mile from the base railroad station Young died but the survivors, still heroically dragging their burden, arrived at the station and collapsed.

DAIRY SHOW HOME TO COST $1,500,000

Structure To Have Seating Capacity of 14,000 and Big Arena

St. Louis, Dec. 3—The national dairy show has been assured of a permanent home here with the recent announcement of plans for a $1,500,000 group of buildings which are to be erected here as a home for the exhibition. The first show will be held in the fall of 1929, according to present plans.

The structure is to have a seating capacity of 14,000 and an arena 435 feet long and 294 feet wide. There is to be a show ring in the center of the house. An exhibit building will be on either side connected with center buildings by covered walks for the patrons and tunnels for the livestock.

Each structure will be of brick and will be 285 feet wide and 300 feet long.

The booths and stalls are to be of portable construction and the buildings can be converted into convention halls and may be used for various athletic events.

According to Harold M. Bixby, chairman of the board of directors of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, and one of the backers of the Lindbergh flight, the proposed construction will be financed through formation of an operating company to be known as the Forest Park Highlands Amusement Company. Flotation of a $1,500,000 bond issue is contemplated. Since the project under present plans is an essentially private enterprise, the possibility of a public bond issue will be eliminated. The buildings will be used for the purpose of a dairy show but two weeks out of the year, even though they were constructed for this purpose.

DEFENDANTS FILE ANSWER IN SUIT

Merle Wise and Father Deny Responsibility in Fatal Auto Accident

Merle Wise and his father Warren Wise, who are defendants in a damage suit brought by Grove C. Dorfe, have filed answers to the petition in common pleas court.

In his petition Dorfe alleges that his son, Richard Earl Dorfe, was killed by an automobile driven by Merle Wise, a minor. The accident occurred at the corner of Blaine av. and Columbia st. last September.

Both defendants claim in their answer that the Dorfe boy roller skated into the side of the Wise machine. His death, they claim, was caused by injuries received when the handle of the rear door struck him.

The defendants are represented by the law firm of Mouser, Young & Mouser.

Armed posses immediately took up pursuit.

NEW PASTOR GIVES OPENING MESSAGE

Rev. L. A. Wood Addresses Large Congregation at Trinity Baptist Church

"I came to Marion to give the utmost of service to Trinity Baptist church and to contribute to the public welfare of Marion as a citizen," said the Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, the new pastor of Trinity church, after being presented to the congregation yesterday morning by Senior Deacon C. S. Lippincott.

The service, when the new pastor gave his first official message here, was largely attended. Mr. and Mrs. Wood and family are to be given a reception by the church membership at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night at the church.

Invited To Serve Here

"I did not seek the position of pastor here," Mr. Wood said, "I did not know I was being considered. However, upon your invitation and upon the conviction that the Lord Jesus as my superintendent had given me the assignment to this place, I came to counsel with you, assist you in time of trouble and give you my whole hearted affection as a minister of the gospel."

Names Three Essentials

Mr. Wood then named the three things he regards as essential to a successful pastorate, first saying, "All features in connection with church activities must be conducted so as to contribute to the glory of the Lord." Second, "Efficient leadership. We must enlarge our number of leaders by bringing into activity the unused talent in our church," and third, "in promoting church activities it is essential that the church have a large number of people in attendance at all services, Sunday night and Wednesday evening fellowship meetings in particular.

Mr. Wood preached a Thanksgiving sermon, taking as his subject the words, "Praise Ye to God" and as his text, "Be Ye Thankful."

LIST 208 CONVERTS AS REVIVAL CLOSES

Pilgrim Holiness Meetings Concluded; Burke Mission Starts Series

Revival services opened yesterday at the Ella Burke mission, Darius st., and closed at Pilgrim Holiness church.

With the close of the revival at the Holiness church last night, when 19 responded to an invitation to the altar, it was reported that 208 had been converted during the campaign. The Rev. David Wilson, of Binghamton, N. Y., preached at three well-attended services during the day.

The revival at the mission opened yesterday morning with an attendance of 47 at Sunday School. The Rev. James Maffin preached in the afternoon on the text, Hebrews, 11:13 and the Rev. J. V. Cook preaching last night.

Services will be held every night at 7:30 o'clock through Sunday, Dec. 23. A divine healing service and message will be conducted by Mr. Maffin at 3:30 o'clock next Sunday.

WANTS ALL LEGAL ACTIVITIES MERGED

Attorney General Sargent Makes Recommendations to Congress

Washington, Dec. 3—Consolidation of all legal activities of the government under the direction of the department of justice, was recommended to congress today by Attorney General Sargent.

In his annual report Sargent declared that a large number of legal offices have been created in the past 60 years and that as many of these act independently of the justice department, a situation has arisen comparable to that prior to 1870 when the responsibility for legal work was divided among many law offices.

The report contained recommendations of Chief Justice Taft for three additional district judges for the southern district of New York, two additional judges for the eastern district of New York, and one for the southern district of Florida and additional judges for the second and ninth circuit.

Justice Taft reported that congestion in New York and Brooklyn has created a hopeless situation that can not be remedied without additional judicial machinery.

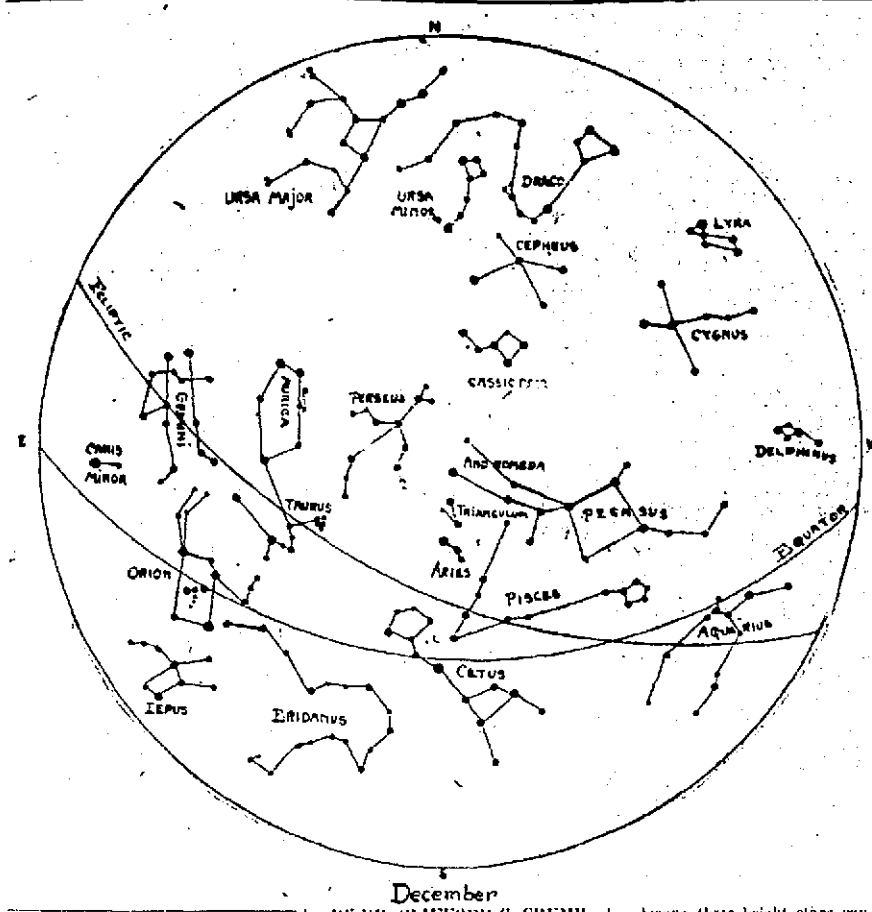
Going Through December With the Stars



December

BY DR. CLIFFORD C. CRUMP
(Director of Perkins Observatory, Ohio Wesleyan University)

DURING the month of December more bright stars can be seen in the Eastern sky than at any other time of the year. Among these bright stars can be traced the constellation of Orion, one of the most brilliant of all the stellar groups. To learn this group of stars is never to forget it. To watch it climb toward the meridian and "slope toward the west" is to be the richer by one more experience which is wholly delightful.

According to some authorities, Orion was the son of Neptune and the queen Euryale. His mother was a famous Amazonian huntress and he, himself, became the greatest hunter in the world. At one time he boasted that there was no animal on earth which he could not conquer. To punish his vanity a scorpion stung him and he died. In order to remind others of the danger vanity brings, Diana placed Orion and the Scorpion both in the sky and opposite each other as a warning.

Orion may be seen in the evening during the month of December in the southeastern sky. On the fifteenth of the month the constellation will be on the meridian directly south of the observer at about 9 o'clock. It is easily located by a parallelogram of bright stars, the upper left hand star being a fine red in color and the lower right hand star being a brilliant blue white. Near the center of the parallelogram there are three stars, rather close together, of equal brightness. Below these three stars is another group of three stars which are much fainter than the first group. Above a line joining the two upper stars which outlines the shoulders of the giant is a group of stars, a little west of the center, which locates the head. The two lower stars of the parallelogram outline the knees. The first group of three stars mentioned is the belt of the Hunter and the faint line of stars below the belt represents the sword.

Betelgeuze, the star in the right shoulder, is one of the most interesting stars in the heavens. It was the first star whose diameter was determined. It takes light approximately 296 years to reach us from this star. Since light travels at the rate of about 6 millions of millions of miles in a year the star is in the neighborhood of 1,776,000,000,000,000 miles from the sun. Even in the largest telescope the star is seen as a point of light.

By the method of interference of light the diameter of Betelgeuze has been determined. It has been found that this giant sun has a diameter which varies. When the diameter is the smallest, it is 280,000,000 miles and when it is largest it may be as great as 460,000,000 miles. If when the diameter is the smallest, the star were a spherical shell, the sun could be placed in the center and the planets Mercury, Venus and the Earth could revolve in their natural orbits, 36 millions, 67 millions and 93 millions of miles from the sun, respectively, and still be within the shell. The planet Mars, 141.5 millions of miles from the sun would circle around the shell just beyond its equator.

Rigel, the blue white star in the left knee of the giant, is so far away that its distance is not determined with great accuracy. It is certain, however, that the light one sees in 1928 from Rigel left the star before Christopher Columbus was born.

The middle star in the Sword of Orion is known as Theta Orionis. To the eye this star is indistinct. With an opera glass a faint cloud-like object is seen. This cloud is called the Great Nebula in Orion. It is one of the most remarkable objects of its kind in the heavens. The main part of the nebula covers an area of the sky which is equal to the apparent disk of the sun. It is thought to be 600 light years away and that it takes light 5.5 years to travel from one side to the other. If light started to cross the nebula on January 10, 1920, it would reach the other side about June 1st, 1925! It is a mass of gas of extremely low density. If this were not so the stars in that region of the sky would be drawn toward it. Since no such motion can be detected, it is estimated that the density of this cloud must be less than one millionth of the density of air at sea level.

TOOK ADVICE OF DOCTORS AND COLDS QUICKLY DISAPPEARED

Get Instant Relief Instead of Added Misery Caused by Neglect of Proper Treatment

Many Here Try New Hospital Method in Own Homes for Head and Chest Colds

By taking the advice of their doctors and using a method that has relieved even the most extreme hospital cases, Mrs. E. H. Barber and C. H. Perry now know the quickest and most pleasant way to get rid of a head cold, chest cold or resultant cough

Nose Cleared Up—Cold Gone in Few Hours

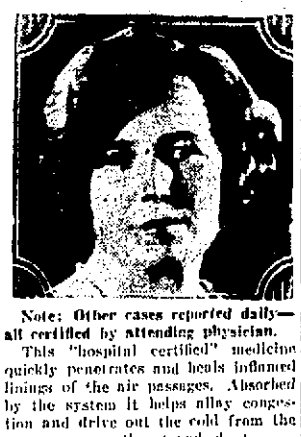
The quick relief which came to Mr. Perry is typical of experiences in numbers of Marion homes.

For three days the different remedies he used failed to check the cold in his head. Then he consulted his doctor, who advised double strength doses of Ayer's Pectoral—a hospital certified medication of wild cherry, tepin-hydrate, etc., which clears up the breathing passages.

Relief began instantly. He felt the comforting, healing warmth—from his nose passages deep down into his chest—and in a few hours congestion began to loosen up. Next morning he was breathing freely through his nose and in a day or so all traces of the cold were gone.

Tempting to Take and Soon Ended Child's Cold

Mrs Barber's ten year old daughter contracted a severe cold which started spreading so fast it was necessary to call the doctor. On his advice then she gave double doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral every half hour until congestion was relieved—then once every two hours. By supper time the child felt lots better and ate heartily for the first time in several days. That night she was able to sleep without coughing and in a day or so was rid of the cold and back at school.



Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician.

This "hospital certified" medicine quickly penetrates and heals inflamed linings of the air passages. Absorbed by the system it helps allay congestion and drive out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person tomorrow. At all druggists—60c and, twice as much in $1.00 hospital size.

BUMPS GONE

IT seems that it doesn't happen to be you and me that appreciate the new paving on West Center st. Oh, of course, we do, but we sort of take it for granted.

It's the fellow from out of town who has been coming to Marion for lo these many years and watching the ocean-like rolling effect of the bricks. He's seen that street and wondered why we let it remain that way.

But, now the minute he "lands" in town he looks, he gasps and his countenance is wreathed in smiles.

There's K. A. Shumaker, of Columbus, for instance. "K. A." is secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and he was here the other night while the "Y" membership drive was being held. During the course of his remarks he spoke of our nice West Center st. and the brightened "Y."

"You know," he said, "when I get up in the morning and am ready to leave town, I am going to call a taxi and sit back and ride over that glorious stretch. It's not that I want to 'blow' any money—it's just that I want to experience the joy of riding over that new street after the many times that I've bumped over it."

HORN-BLOWERS

ELIMINATION of confusion in auto traffic is necessary in order to solve the problem to the complete satisfaction of everybody concerned and all of the rules and regulations conceivable will not bring this about without co-operation of motorists.

Evidence of this is found practically every day in Marion as well as other cities where an effort is being made to prevent congestion and accidents.

Among the outstanding offenses in one to which at least half of the motoring public must plead guilty. It occurs almost invariably when traffic is held up as a consequence of a machine becoming stalled from one cause or another. Sometimes an inexperienced driver "kills" his—or her—engine—and finds that it stubbornly refuses to come to life in spite of determined attacks on the mechanism.

Whatever may be the cause, the delay is almost invariably a signal for drivers at the rear to start up a riot of horns and sirens as an expression of protest.

There was an occurrence of this sort at Center and State sts. a few days ago, when a woman driver was baffled by the failure of her car to start when the traffic light signaled to go ahead.

Immediately machines in the line at her rear began to sound their customary strident chorus and it grew in volume until the noise resembled a miniature Armistice day celebration.

Naturally, this failed to help matters. As the noise increased the woman auto pilot became more confused and worked frantically with the various devices at her feet and on the switchboard, apparently unable to remember what any of them were for or how they should be operated.

Finally a kind-hearted pedestrian came to her rescue and coaxed the recalcitrant motor into action. The line of machines moved ahead with all of the horn-blowers grinning triumphantly, blissfully believing that they deserved all the credit for clearing up the traffic jam.

FARM PROTECTION

EACH year the number of farmers prohibiting hunting on their land seems to increase and it is somewhat of a puzzle to figure out how the hundreds of sportsmen in Marion county and vicinity find places to pursue game without molestation.

This fall something like a hundred or more Marion county land owners published "no trespass" notices and at the same time more hunters' licenses were issued than ever before. Obviously this small army of nimrods found space for operations, for very few returned home empty-handed and according to reports there were some who brought back more game than the law allowed.

The average farmer is willing to permit hunting on his land if he knows the hunters and is convinced that they are reliable and responsible. Experience has shown, however, that there are some nimrods who are just as likely to bring down some of the farmers' best livestock with poorly aimed shots as they are to end the careers of rabbits or pheasants. For that reason, farmers are not generally censured for being a little particular about having their premises promiscuously invaded by gun toters.

AWAIT MERGER PLANS OF HUPP-CHANDLER

Cleveland, Dec. 3—Automotive interest today awaited an announcement from the Hup Motor Car Corp. of Detroit, as to what will be done with the Chandler-Cleveland Motors Corp., of this city.

A formal announcement that Hupp had acquired control of the Chandler concern was made here Saturday by Samuel Hegar, treasurer of the merged company, who said he had been authorized to speak for the company and for Fred C. Chandler, president, who is abroad. The merger was unofficially reported last week.

Ice-cold love letters

No matter how warm with sentiment are the letters in his bag, they give little aid and comfort to the mail-man. In biting winds, in zero snows, he must make his frosty rounds.

Because the mails must go through in all weathers, letter-carriers need to throw colds off quickly. To do that, millions of outdoor workers, and indoor workers as well, take GROVE'S BROMO QUININE at the very first warning signal—a sneeze, a headache, or a stopped-up feeling. Thus they frequently side-step the cold entirely, while fortifying the system against grip and influenza.

World leadership in sales is the reward which results have earned for the original cold and grip tablets. Make sure of getting them by emphasizing GROVE'S when asking for GROVE'S BROMO QUININE. Price 30c.

Sloan Believes South America Offers Best Chances for Business Expension

G. M. C. President Sees Hoover Tour as Contribution to U. S Trade

Visualizes Great Potential Demand for American Cars in Foreign Field

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(Copyright, 1928, by I N S)

New York, Dec 3—South America, in my opinion, offers at present the broadest and biggest opportunities for the expansion of America's overseas automobile business

President elect Hoover in visiting the important points in this market of tremendous possibilities is making an outstanding contribution in the further development of America's foreign trade The influence of his good will journey will reach far beyond the particular countries he will visit

Alfred P Sloan, Jr president of General Motors Corp the largest industrial organization in the world made these statements in an interview He recently returned from a five weeks business survey in Europe

Romance In Business

Seated at his desk in his handsomely appointed office on the twenty fourth floor of the new General Motors building Mr Sloan painted a vivid word picture of the tremendous and steady growth of America's automobile business in foreign countries and its resultant effect upon the prosperity of the United States As one listened it became evident that there is real romance in business He told how in the pampas of the Argentine cowboys are using automobiles how motor cars are displacing llamas in the Andes of Chili and how the royal family of Japan now ride in limousines although still retaining their jinrikishas

The automobile is changing the psychology of peoples—of nations, declared Mr Sloan an alert, keen minded immaculately dressed man of 53 who looks considerably younger

He visualizes a 'very great potential demand for Americanmade cars in the foreign field Discussing his recent trip abroad he said the motor industry in Europe is advancing at a rapid pace and the sale of U S manufactured cars is on the steady increase

Offer Opportunities

'The export markets offer great opportunities for sales of American made cars' said Mr Sloan in outlining how the automobile business can be expanded 'Our sales of motor cars overseas this year will exceed 2,00000

General Motors which operates in practically every country in the world will do an overseas business for the year 1928 that will closely approximate 700 million dollars In 1927 the wholesale value of our sales overseas were 98 millions. Our exports in 1926 were 98 millions in 1927 they were 76 millions and in 1924 over 50 millions That gives you an idea of how our foreign business has been expanding

Mr Sloan was asked if there was any truth in the report that when he was abroad he initiated negotiations looking to General Motors acquiring the largest automobile company in Germany

No he replied promptly 'I cannot understand how such stories get circulated

Sales Will Increase

Dispatches from Berlin had stated that one of the largest business deals between America and Germany was soon to be consummated with the acquisition by General Motors of control of the Opel Automobile Works the largest automobile concern in Germany

Mr Sloan also denied negotiating with a big automobile company in Italy as reported

The General Motors chief executive smiled when asked if the point of saturation in automobile sales had been reached in the United States

'Personally I do not think so' he replied I fully believe that not only will our present trend of motor car sales be maintained in this country but will increase

"Yet we must accept the fact that it cannot increase at the same relative rate that it has in the past 10 years One factor that will contribute to this increase is the export field where the potential demand for automobiles is very great.

In many overseas countries transportation of both goods and individuals is in a very primitive stage

'The railroads are scarce and limit transportation from one large place to another The railroads in some countries do not serve the people in the sense that we understand that term

Factor in Development

'The motor car, and the motor truck as well provides the only form of practical transportation It lives this at a relatively low cost and with greater flexibility and reliability Even though road development in some countries is frequently in a poor state the modern car can nevertheless go almost anywhere—and better than other mediums of transportation

Therefore the use of the motor car and the motor truck is not only an economic necessity but it is a contributing factor in the development of various countries It gives the people a new outlook on life changes them in a psychological way It increases their breadth of vision broadens their horizon and makes for better working conditions and a higher standard of living'

Mr Sloan declared that outside of England and the continent of Europe the American made motor car dominates the market

Visit Will Do Good

This is because American made cars offer transportation of both goods and passengers at a relatively low cost with comfort and reliability unequalled by any competing nation—not only unequalled but unapproached he asserted

Although all overseas markets contribute to this general picture conditions vary I should say that South America offers the broadest and biggest opportunities for expansion—at least for the present And as I said Mr Hoover's visit to Latin American countries will do a tremendous amount of good'

(Editor's Note—In Tuesday's story the third and last article of this series Mr Sloan will comment on the New York stock market which has been attracting considerable attention of late)

BUILDING RECORD HIGHER THIS YEAR

Last Month's Total Here Over Four Times Amount in 1927

Building permits issued by the city clerk during the last month reached a total of more than four times the amount issued during November, 1927, according to his report today The number of permits was more than double the number issued in the same month last year

The total for the past month was 47 permits and $46,420 as compared to 22 permits issued during November 1927 for a total of $13,200

At the same times fees collected were nearly seven times the fees collected during Nov 1927 $75 being collected during the past month as compared to $11 in the same month of last year

Permits for 38 dwellings for a total construction cost of $72,700 were issued last month There were 22 garage permits totaling $2,585

SHUMAKER LOSES

Fails in Effort To Dismiss Action of Attorney General

Indianapolis, Dec 3—The Indiana supreme court here Saturday afternoon overruled a motion of Dr I S Shumaker superintendent of the Indiana Anti Saloon league, which sought to dismiss action started by Attorney General Arthur L Gilliom

Gilliom asked that Governor Jackson's pardon of Dr Shumaker be set aside so that the dry head be forced to serve a 60 day sentence for contempt of court

The court however granted Shumaker until Dec 11 to show cause why he should not serve the sentence

BUST OF RICHARD WAGNER BEING HELD FOR $6 DUTY

New York Dec 3—An iron relief of the bust of Richard Wagner German composer may be high art to some people but to the United States customs authorities it is just junk and "old junk" at that. The officials refuse to allow the object to leave the federal appraisers' stores where it has been held since its arrival in this country, until $6 duty is paid on it The owner contends it is worth $5,000 and is exempt from duty as a work of art.

Constantly we are finding new and better ways of doing things

THE new Ford was a good car when it was first introduced. It is a better car today. Constantly we are finding new and better ways of doing things. Ceaselessly, untiringly, our engineers are working for the improvement of the car. Every new idea that seems to promise advancement is studied and tested in every conceivable way.

Not only in the laboratory, but out on the road in actual running. As soon as we are sure of its value we put it into the car.

The result is an automobile that is always new. There is no such thing as saving improvements for a yearly model designed to speed up sales or capture a passing fancy.

No matter when you buy a new Ford—in January, May, August or December—you know that it embodies every latest development that has proved sound and good.

You know more than this. You know that in design, materials and workmanship it is the best car that can possibly be made at a low price. The deciding thought behind every move is not sales or profits—but "What will give the most service to the public?"

Our whole effort is toward simplicity—to give you complete, well-rounded performance with the least amount of machinery and without sacrificing quality anywhere along the line. You cannot make a complicated car at a low price without cutting corners somewhere.

The new Ford is a truly great car because it brings you a proved, sensible balance of every essential feature of an automobile. No one part has been over-developed at the expense of another.

You get remarkable acceleration and smoothness at all speeds. You get speed of 55 to 65 miles an hour. You get uncommon power and hill-climbing ease. You get reliability and economy of operation that will save you many dollars in the up-keep of your car.

You get more than this . . . a fully enclosed, silent six-brake system—four Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers—Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield—the full and immediate advantage of many improvements developed exclusively by the Ford Motor Company.

Arrange now to see the new Ford and know the thrill of driving it. Judge it not only on acceleration, power and speed, but also on safety, comfort, ease of control, reliability, economy—on its long life and the security of its trade-in value.

You will know then that today, more truly than ever before, there is nothing quite like the new Ford in design, quality and price.

All of us have our troubles, which reminds us that today we have congress on our hands again.

A Paris cable says Americans over there missed cranberries when eating their Thanksgivin dinner. But then, they probably had that missed by a lot of Americans here at home for fear of getting poisoned.

Apropos of the announcement of the engagement of Miss Trumbull and young John Coolidge, let us hope that the press will not insist on doing its utmost to spoil two very pleasing young people.

Another Chicago "liquor king" has been assassinated. Sooner or later the rum dispensers should begin to figure wherein lies the advantage of acquiring wealth if they are not to be permitted to live to enjoy it.

France has voted $32,000,000 extra to the maintaining of her army of 600,000, the largest on earth. Those poverty pleas do not "listen" so good in the face of such an increased military appropriation.

Let us hope that Congressman Britten takes cognizance of the fact that Premier Baldwin answers his proposal for a parliamentary conference through Ambassador Howard and Secretary of State Kellogg.

A Newark, New Jersey, pastor has been indicted for libel, the charge being that he circulated during the recent campaign printed copies of the bogus oath attributed to the Knights of Columbus. Before the law, the preacher and the layman stand alike. If convicted, his cloth should not protect him from richly-deserved punishment. If anything, it aggravates his offense.

Our friends, the doctors, do not always bury their mistakes. A woman has just died out in Des Moines, Iowa, at the age of 108 who at eighty was pronounced dead by her family physician.

Representative Wuller, of New York, will introduce in congress tomorrow a resolution providing for the conferring of the congressional medal of honor on Lionel Licorice, who saved twenty-two lives at the sinking of the Vestris. This may be said: one capable of achieving as the little quartermaster did, certainly would be capable of appreciating such recognition.

At a recent sale in New York, 134 horses brought $303,640. It is apparent that, despite the auto, the horse has not yet reached the stage where it is looked on as a sort of an economic white elephant.

"Investigations are valuable," the Washington Star says, "not so much in suggesting indignations for the past, as in uttering precautions for the future." Maybe so, but we never took to the idea that much inspiration looking to the advancement of the world can be had from looking over the back fence of an old graveyard.

A French industrialist, returning to Paris from a visit of six months in South America, tells his fellow-countrymen that France is losing her trade and intellectual influence in that part of the world where French prestige was once paramount. Is it not just possible that the failure of France to recognize her just debts may be responsible for the changed condition?

Another worker in the mills up in Kenosha, Wisconsin, has been shot down by a band of thugs in an automobile, which, we take it, is another illustration of the policy of "persuasion" adopted by the strikers.

A Leamington story tells of the finding at Harbury of the bones of a three-eyed plesiosaurus which show that the reptile was ten feet high and thirty feet long and indicate that it was 1,000,000 years old. A lot of things are being seen in England since the bootleggers got busy over there, but these bones are the real thing and not the imaginings of a rum addict.

Professor Dewey, of Columbia, denies the charge that he is a propagandist for communism made by Matthew Woll, of the American Federation of Labor. Maybe it might be just as well had our colleges fewer men on their faculties who find it necessary to utter such denials.

There is said to be little possibility that President Doumergue of France will pardon the four murderesses awaiting the guillotine over there, the French public resenting even the thought of the extending of presidential clemency. It is apparent that France has gotten away from the sickly sentimentality which has led to the extension of clemency to so many murderesses, only three having thus far been executed in the history of the republic.

Despot Would Rule the World.

In an interview published in the Paris Renaissance, B. Bajanoff, a former aide to Stalin who succeeded in escaping from Moscow and reaching France, throws new light upon conditions in soviet Russia, which he says is absolutely under the control of one man, and that man Stalin.

In 1919, Bajanoff says, supreme power in Russia was held by the "Council of People's Commissars." Three years later it passed to the "Polit Bureau," from which in 1921 it passed to the triumvirate made up of Trotzky, Zinovieff and Kameneff. Their complete overthrow gave control to the Communist party, of which Stalin was the head. It was not long till Stalin, who maintains his power through an organization of autocratic secretaries, all of whom are his creatures, became supreme dictator, and he has since wielded despotic powers.

Stalin, Bajanoff explains, is not a man of talent, not a capable man. He is illiterate and knows nothing either of diplomacy of the science of government. He has gained control and holds it wholly through his ability to organize, which is marked. He has organized the Communists of Russia and controls them through agents of his own mental caliber who know but one thing, and that is to obey his orders blindly. Were they capable of thinking for themselves, they would lose their usefulness to him and be supplanted speedily.

"Knowing nothing of diplomacy," says Bajanoff of the despot, "he has turned that over to Buklearin, his man in the Polit Bureau. Kalanin, so-called president of the republic, is really the agent of Stalin, but both he and Bukharin and Premier Rykoff have been terrorized through what they saw happen to Trotzky and Zinovieff, and it is certain that none of them would ever risk any opposition to Stalin.

"Stalin completely controls the press, and if from time to time it discloses rumors of schisms, concessions to capitalism or a return to conservatism it may be held perfectly sure that these rumors are wholly unfounded and are being circulated by Stalin for reasons of his own.

"Foreign governments and Russian exiles are still under the impression that the Polit Bureau and the soviets retain their influence in Russia. That is utterly wrong. Only the members of the Communist party in any organization in Russia enjoy power, and all these are responsible to Stalin, who has stamped out the Trotzky opposition, while adopting all the policies previously promoted by that opposition.

"In answer to the question whether Stalin, having obtained absolute power, will not tend to turn toward the right, it may be decisively said that he will not. Stalin reasons thus:

"'If I make concessions to the Right I shall be forced to establish a normal capitalistic regime in Russia and the country will then necessarily become dependent on the great European nations, notably on England and France, since, because of the bad state of Russian industries, Russia will be reduced to a minor role. In that event I might lose control. But if I perpetuate the revolution, and if the world revolution succeeds, I have every chance of becoming a world dictator.'"

In recent years, whenever Russia has been charged with spreading red propaganda in lands with which she has so-called diplomatic relations, the reply of Russia has been that if any Russians have been spreading propaganda in such lands they were not the representatives or agents of the Russian government, but of the Third Internationale; that the soviet Russian government has no connection with the Third Internationale and can not be held responsible for the acts of individual nationals in such countries acting for it; that the soviet government is above spreading communistic propaganda in a country with which it enjoys diplomatic relations.

If Bajanoff is to be credited, and the fact that he has broken away from Russia must be accepted as evidence that he is not committed to a consistent policy of dishonesty, there is no soviet government in Russia. If he is right, the only power in Russia is Stalin, who minules through an organization of the Communist party, which is the Third Internationale. If he has painted the situation as it is, red propagandists in this country seeking to make converts of the "Russian people's party" cause are simply seeking to hoodwink those upon whom they work to become supporters of the plan of this illiterate despot to make himself, by overthrowing all government, world dictator.

And the worst of it is that some members of our national legislative bodies, who may honestly believe that they are patriotic citizens, will probably vote, during the session of congress opened today, to recognize soviet Russia and thus play into the hands of this tyrant, who plans and hopes for an international revolt to make his power supreme throughout the world.

The air mail was stolen by two hold-up men in St. Louis. Looks as though marines will have to be guarding airplanes and trucks as well as the mail cars.

Who can blame Suzanne Lenglen for deciding never again to play tennis in competition. She is wise to realize that youth must be served and retire when the retiring is good.

After eight months of investigation by the treasury department, fourteen inspectors have been indicted in Detroit, and the list of indicted may reach a hundred. The fourteen indicted are charged with having connived with rum runners in bringing liquor into the United States at a regular figure—$500 a night—for each boat "protected." The trouble in dry law enforcement is that the kind of men employed are not of the stuff to forego crookedness when it offers, many times the pay they draw for being honest.

OH, BOY! WHAT A SHOW!

Poor Circulation Affects Hair.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

If you knew how to raise a crop of human hair on a bald and shining dome, you would make a fortune in six months. You would be only a little less popular than a man who was supposed to be able to raise the dead. We may take baldness laughingly, sadly or philosophically. But no matter what may be the spirit in which it is accepted, no man likes to be bald and no woman likes to see her hair falling out in handfuls. Nobody wants to be gray either. The causes that make for baldness in men, or for early white and thinning locks in women are the same. They appear to be peculiar to some families. For this reason they are often thought to be inherited. Like many other ailments, the tendency to baldness may be transmitted, but the actual reasons for rapid falling of the hair are likely to be found in the things we do or do not do.

The hair depends for its life upon the blood that is sent to the scalp from the heart. Without an abundant blood supply to the scalp, the hair is in danger.

We may compare the scalp to a garden and the hair to the crop raised in the garden. Just as the roots of every plant in a garden must be watched by moisture, so must the root of every hair have a supply of blood sufficient for its needs. If the supply of water to the garden is insufficient, or if it does not reach the outer edges of the flowerbeds, the plant cut off from moisture will dry up or wither. In the same way, if the stream of blood sent up to the scalp from the heart is not forceful enough to reach and feed the root of every hair, the hair, like the plant, will lose its natural color. It will become dry and lifeless, and perhaps actually die and drop from the head.

Nature has planned the scalp just as carefully as she has every other part of the body. She has supplied it with tiny blood vessels that spread out like a fan, going to every part of the head. Every hair has its own blood vessels. To function rightly, these vessels must be fed by an uninterrupted flow of blood. It must reach every part of the head.

There are various things which interfere with this free flow of blood to the scalp. If the body is not well nourished, there will be trouble. If it is not supplied with the elements needed by the hair, it can not thrive. If the heart is weak in its action, so that it fails to act as a forceful pump, driving the blood through all the tiny vessels of the scalp, the hair is not nourished. If any of these conditions exist then the hair will lose vitality and die.

Tight, hard, heavy hats interfere with the free circulation of the blood. They do their part in causing the hair to fall. The millinery of women is more favorable to keeping the hair than is the headdress of men.

Anything that stimulates the circulation of the scalp is good treatment for falling hair. Massage and brushing are excellent. Hair tonics have their place.

But the best preventive of baldness and of falling hair is a healthy, well-fed and well-exercised body. That means rich blood, good circulation and a well nourished scalp. It means the saving of the hair.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

A. M. Q—What is acudesis, its cause and the symptoms? How can it be corrected?

A—Over-acid condition of the blood. Drowsiness and vomiting are two outstanding symptoms. Proper diet will help to correct the condition. Alkaline food, orange and pineapple juice may be included in such diet.

M. K. Q—What would cause the legs to swell if I am on my feet to any extent, also have a breaking out or rash from hips down at times. I am nervous and have backache very often.

2—I am twenty-two years old, five feet four inches tall and weigh about 134 pounds, what should I weigh?

A—Have a careful urinalysis to determine the condition of the kidneys. They may be responsible for the condition you describe. Your doctor will advise the treatment you need.

2—You should weigh about 127 pounds.

C. R. Q—How long does typhoid fever serum make a person immune to this disease?

2—Is water from a well which contains sulphur healthful?

A—This serum will prove effective for about five or seven years.

2—It is not particularly healthful, but should not prove injurious unless too much is taken.

Editorial Opinion.

MEXICO'S NEW EXECUTIVE.

Inauguration of President Gil, of Mexico, is an event of happy omen on both sides of the Rio Grande. The personality of the man and the circumstances under which he accedes to authority alike lend deep significanse to the new reign now begun.

Senor Gil was elected the successor of President Calles a few months ago at an hour when Mexicans might well have been tempted to install a militarist dictator in the executive mansion. Senor Obregon, the duly constituted president-elect, had just been assassinated. There was loud demand for amendment of the constitution to permit President Calles to succeed himself, with an ironhand mandate against the enemies of the revolution. Senor Calles, to his everlasting credit, rejected the crown. Instead, he paved the way to the selection of a provincial schoolmaster, Senor Gil, a younger man, a statesman of peace and an apostle of government by ballot rather than by bullet.

Mexican relations with the United States were not directly involved in the Obregon-Calles Gil trinity of circumstances. But President Gil inherits the tradition to which Senors Obregon and Calles had become definitely devoted, namely, an abandonment of the policies which kept the well of Mexican American friendship poisoned so long.

In that happy consummation two Americans had a major part—Secretary Kellogg and Ambassador Morrow. They, with the rest of the American people, recognize the implications of the now empowered Gil administration in Mexico City, for whose tranquility and prosperity the people of the United States send cordial good wishes across the border.—Washington Star.

WHY THE MARYLAND?

A president-elect of the United States afloat on a battleship probably would be a sight for the sore eyes of those strangely-constituted Americans who are annoyed at the spectacle of Mr. Hoover traveling to South America on a battleship. But although he will not take office until next March, Mr. Hoover already has a definite official status. The South American tour he is making is regarded as official. What could be more appropriate, then, than he should make it on a government vessel?

We are a very democratic people, yet we are not above the obligations of international good manners. At home we can do what we please. When we mingle in international society we must consider the feelings of others, as well as our own. The South American country that Mr. Hoover will visit would be surprised, if not offended, if he rolled on them in his everyday clothes, as it were. Such things are not done in the best national families.

As for overawing South and Central America by the display of a single battleship, we suspect that there is not a country Mr. Hoover will visit whose government doesn't know our naval strength down to the last bolt and rivet, as well as the purpose for which it is maintained. Were these perilous times a president-elect, if he traveled abroad at all, would perhaps leave the navy behind; but when there is nothing but peace in the air of this hemisphere, there is no reason why he should not travel in a manner befitting the dignity of his own country and that of the country he visits.—Detroit Free Press.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Dec. 3—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early out to the Belmont to call on James and Maybelle Woods from Los Angeles and then to the public library where there is more gentle courtesy than I find elsewhere in New York. Breakfasted on country sausage and fried apples at a station counter.

So to talk to Jim Coffroth, the sportsman, and recalled the lonely, anxious night we spent in Mexico City many years ago with a revolution brewing, martial law declared and all trains stopped. Then met Frank Case, who introduced me to Edna Hibbard, the play actress, and to see my mother-in-law.

In the evening with my wife to drive to Coogan's Bluff and struck how desolate are the Polo grounds in winter, then we to the new Plaza grill where came William A. Prime and his lady, Grace Larue and Hale Hamilton and many others to a dinner party. Late to bed.

I never realized how many men were interested in holding off their hands to study their finger nails until I sat through an after-dinner speech lasting exactly one hour at the Waldorf the other evening. A noted statesman at a nearby table duplicated the vacuous expression of my dog when he is hunched up scratching a flea.

There is no man so utterly insufferable as the long-winded after-dinner speaker, and I've cupped an ear for plenty—including the bright-eyed moron who details every flicker of a motion picture play. The man who carried off speaking honors of the evening stood up, told a story that required two minutes, and sat down.

At sun-down on the roof-tops of New York hotels there gather in seasonable weather groups of old women the city rarely sees. They constitute the venerable army of scrubwomen who keep mosiac floors shining and mirrors agiitter in hotel lobbies, toiling in early morning hours and sleeping all day. They live in hotel pent houses—dull eyed, rachitic, toothless and sallow crones, who often do not leave the hotels from one year's end to another.

One of the most dramatic of Broadway stories concerns a popular dancing girl of five years ago who, swathed in chinchilla, waited for a hotel elevator one dawn. Her glance fell upon a bent and ancient figure scrubbing the floor. She drew a bill from a jeweled purse and approached the woman. Their glances met. The dancing girl stiffened as though bit by an electric jolt, turned the dead gray of an oyster and replacing the bill walked away in a daze. She had recognized her mother she had long neglected. That, my dears, is drama.

Two of my readers—Pat and Mike, I suppose—inquire in the same mail why a vaudeville quip at the expense of Flushing provokes so much hearty laughter. I've wrinkled a brow over that a time or two also. Flushing is an up-to-date and sprightly suburb, and if there is anything comic about it few of us have seen it.

Across the block-long stone front of the main postoffice on Eighth avenue is chiseled, "Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds." A Bit of Paradise.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

A lady writes me: "Reading your article on the Harvest moon has decided me to send you this, for it brought back so vividly to my memory a place which nestles at the foot of the Catskills, near the shore of the Delaware river, where I was born and lived until a few years ago. I trust that this will clear away your doubts about the continued existence of certain features of American life. For not only in the 'agricultural West,' but in the place I speak of still exists the old-time farmer, the Indian corn field, the cider apple and its press, the 'coon' and its thrilled hunter, who does not wonder at the glory of the harvest and the hunter's moons for they seem to be a part of that particular place. To spend a week there, breathing the spicy autumn air and roaming in the hazy Indian summer is happiness."

Thus the earth justifies the devotion of its children—if they are children of wisdom. John Bunyan, sending his "Pilgrim" on the long, straight, narrow, adventurous way to the "Celestial City," did not think that the pure pleasures of this world should be contemptuously disregarded, but on the contrary, he created pleasant arbors by the wayside, and green meadows and fruitful gardens for the refreshment of his weary, burdened wanderers. The "House Beautiful" with its charming hostesses, stood overlooking the descent to the "Valley of the Shadow of Death" the Holy City itself was glimpsed from the "Delectable Mountains," and before the "Dark River" was crossed to the "Celestial Gate," they traversed the country of "Beulah," "whose air was very sweet and pleasant," and there "they solaced themselves for a season," and refreshed themselves in the "vineyards of the King."

Yes, Paradise has left its allurements upon the earth, but as Bunyan would have said, they are to be tested in pureness of heart. "Vanity Fair," too, lies in the way to "Mount Zion," but those who are held fast in its nets never see the "golden streets" or hear the celestial bells ring their welcome.

The mightiest "aid to devotion" that can be found is this "happiness" that my correspondent describes, arising from unselfseeking contact with nature. When one feels that things are beautiful and delightful because they are in their natural place, fulfilling their natural parts, a kind of "adoration" arises that is greater, deeper, more inexpressible, more surely uplifting than any invention of professional theology. In this sense it is true that "the undevout astronomer is mad."

But that does not apply to the technical astronomer of the observatory, or of the computing room, or of the astrophysical laboratory so much as it applies to those who consider the heavens without thinking of the science of astronomy at all, or without special reference to it. The glory of the Harvest moon is not enhanced merely by studying the geometrical circumstances that govern its appearance. Only the sight of it turned men to higher thoughts before astronomy as a science existed. With its wondrous beams it gilds the thoughts as well as "the fruit tree tops." Because it is so accordant with the terrestrial scene and so mysteriously influential over the human spirit, it is a striking example of the deep truth of old Aratus' line declaring that "from all quarters heaven speaks to man."

Many others beside my correspondent have bits of Paradise remaining forever in their memory; places where nature excites not so much wonder as happiness.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

The South grows in favor with motor tourists. Southern states have been putting on a progressive campaign of road improvement and road building for the past few years. There are many sound reasons that attract northerners to the Southland for autumn vacation journeys. Traffic is much less heavy than in the North and East or on the Pacific coast. From rural dwellers to the inhabitants of the largest cities there is delightful courtesy. All along the way there is less speed but more charm. Some of the most attractive natural scenery in America is in the South. Historically, the land is a rich field for the wanderer. The advice of this writer is to drift down through Shenandoah valley, all the way through Virginia, and hence to Asheville and, in a wide sweep, to New Orleans. Or if you lack the time for that, turn west at Asheville and proceed through picturesque Tennessee and north into Kentucky.

Men of science will do well to give more and more attention to the study of criminals. The criminal is not a normal man. It is not normal to be always sweet, good, perfect. Neither is it normal to be malicious to the point of committing crimes.—An authority says the shape of a man's head, his features, his handwriting, and his voice are guides to his mental and his moral quality.

There is much to learn about the brain, about the workings of the human mind. There is often too much coddling of criminals, too little severity, and yet the emphasis should not be on punishment, but on a study of the causes of criminality.

The popular shoe for both men and women

MEN and women buy shoes so differently, don't they? Women think first of style. They will neglect everything for good appearance. Yet, they also want comfort. Men, however, think first of comfort. They consider their feet as a business asset. Yet, they also want style. So you see, after all, they both are seeking style and comfort—and they are happily finding both in the famous Arch Preserver Shoe.

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

BY DOROTHY HERZOG
Marion Star Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Introducing, if you please, Warner Klinger.

Warner is a 20 year-old German lad. He arrived in this country eighteen months ago with a Teutonic moniker. He Americanized it upon coming to Hollywood. That failed to interest box producers. You've no idea how busy producers are. They are placed in the position of having to learn instead of selling.

Klinger is a six foot blond. He of course, craved a picture career. For two months, however, he couldn't get a job. He subsisted on funds contributed by the home folks and friends in New York. Finally he landed a job as extra in a Universal picture. That paid him the magnificent sum of $7.50.

Luck stayed with him, and he got a job as a soldier in Emil Jannings' flicker, The Last Command. Jannings and Director Josef Von Sternberg noticed the boy concealed his ability and promoted him to a bit in which he played several scenes with Jannings. They were left on the cutting room floor. But Jannings remembered him as the most interesting extra he had ever met.

Next, Klinger got three days work in Legion of the Condemned at $15 per. About this time, Jannings prepared to begin 'The Patriot' direction of Ernst Lubitsch. He sure must remembered young Klinger and suggested him for the role of the Crown Prince. Tests were made. Lubitsch said Klinger's nose was too lumpy or too something. The boy promptly hurried to a hospital and had it fixed. He telephoned Lubitsch telling him what he had done and that he could take another test the next day. He believe it or not that's pluck. Lubitsch agreed to and the role went to him. Again Klinger was given a test. Unfortunately his nose was a bit swollen from the operation and the part could not be left vacant any longer. So Neil Hamilton got it.

After a few weeks unsuccessful tramping from studio to studio the German corralled a bit in Murnau's new picture, Our Daily Bread, starring Charles Farrell and Mary Duncan.

Back to the famous lot again. Director Josef Von Sternberg is making The Case of Lena Smith with Esther Ralston and Jimmy Hall. Esther begins the picture a girl of 18 and ends it a woman of 40 or so with a grown son her pride and joy. Joe wanted a blond youth. The call went forth. Out of 1000 men in Hollywood approximately 25 were blonds. Most of these were leading men and the remaining 13 in the extra class.

The selection narrowed to three. Finally, Von Sternberg decided on Warner Klinger. He quits a plum part with a ditto salary accompanying it. And en passant he gets screen credit in this picture for the first time. If the talkies grant to prejudiced against accents Klinger may speed into the leading man class pretty soon. He has been in this country a year and a half and achieved more success than the majority of thousands pleading dolefully after the elusive career.

BUSTER KEATON

Buster Keaton has started work on his new movie Spite Marriage. Dorothy Sebastian becomes for him Dorothy in a migratory M G M career. After emoting in A Woman of Affairs the Greta Garbo Jack Gilbert stellar venture Dorothy moved her make up box to the Tiffany Stahl lot and proceeded to star in two celluloiders. She's home now, with the folks who pay her her weekly stipend. Lina Hyams is the other femme in the film with Edward Earle the heavy. Eddie will be missed at the Montmartre where he usually lunches every day occupying that section dedicated to the bachelor lone wolfers.

When You Catch Cold Rub On Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and works right away. It may prevent a cold from turning into 'flu or pneumonia. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster.

Musterole is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Local Express Co. Office Ready for Holiday Rush

Predicting that holiday gift traffic this year will exceed all previous records, the American Railway Express Co, through its local agent, E J Salter, today joined with the postoffice authorities in urging Marion residents to shop and ship early.

Incoming shipments of Christmas season merchandise to local stores have been unusually heavy, promising especially extensive and attractive displays of goods here, Salter states. As a result of the wide variety of merchandise offered, sales of Marion merchants are expected to be larger than ever and are certain to include many out-of-town customers as well as the home trade.

Prepared for Rush

'We are preparing for a record holiday traffic and will be working up to the very last hours of Christmas eve to make sure that all packages in our hands up to that time will be delivered before Christmas morning,' Salter states.

Most people who forward packages during the holidays, the express company agent says, are 'occasional shippers' and are not usually familiar with the essentials of what transportation people call a 'good package.' 'Practically every kind of article can be so prepared as to guarantee perfect condition on arrival.'

Equally important is the making or addressing of the package. Illegible or incorrect addresses invariably result in delays. It is important to give the street and number of the receiver of the package if located in a large city, and in all cases care should be taken with writing of the name of the state (especially when abbreviations are used).

28 Springfields

It is often impossible to decipher such state abbreviations when hastily written. There are hundreds of cities and towns of the same name located in different states. There are, for instance, 28 Springfields.

PLAN EXCHANGE

King's Heralds Arrange for Christmas Season Event

Plans for a Christmas exchange at Epworth M. E. church in two weeks were made at a meeting of the King's Heralds Saturday afternoon at the church.

The meeting opened with repeating the Lord's prayer and a business session. A program opened with reading of the first chapter of the study book, "Campfires of Congo," by Mrs Willard Linton. Robert Levien gave a Christmas Bible reading and Miss Martha Loucher told the story of "Christmas in Holland." "The Make-believe Christmas" was a reading by Miss Jean Williams and "A Visit from St. Nick" a reading by Miss Ruth Douce.

Miss Mary Kathryn Miley gave a piano number, "Silent Night," after which refreshments were served by Miss Miley and Miss Loucher.

Guests were Misses Ruth Ada and Jack Newell of Columbiana, Ind., and Miss Ruth Conarty of Pittsburgh, Pa

If I Were A Man

BY JILL

I WOULDN'T be obsessed with sex. I'd look at a girl's head instead of at her legs. I'd be much more interested in her conversation than in her figure. I wouldn't classify girls according to the amount of sex appeal they possessed. I wouldn't go to see a girl because she had the reputation of being a "good necker." When I talked to a girl I wouldn't concentrate my attention on thinking up phrases with a double meaning. Instead of telling off-color jokes and stories, I'd find subjects more interesting. And when I talked to men, I'd have some other topic of conversation than "women." I'd realize that sex is important, but not to the exclusion of everything else, and when I did think about it I'd treat it freely instead of with a leer. In other words, I'd try to have a sane, decent outlook on life, instead of one distorted by sex. I'd be the sort of man that girls would feel at ease with

If I Were A Girl

BY JACK

I'D have the nerve to be myself. I wouldn't try to be all things to all men — like the chameleon on the plaid neck tie trying to turn all colors of the rainbow at once! If smoking cigarettes gave me a headache, or tickled my throat, or bored me to death, I wouldn't force myself to do it just because the man I happened to be with thought a girl who didn't smoke was old-fashioned and unsophisticated And if drinking made a fool of me, or I didn't like the taste of liquor, I wouldn't take it anyway just for the sake of being a "good sport." Many a man has gotten a girl "lit" and laughed at her afterward for not having sense enough to know when she'd had enough. And I wouldn't make a date with a man who didn't interest me just for the sake of appearing popular. The man I'd go out with would have to be something more than a chauffeur or a meal ticket—otherwise, I'd stay home and read a book Be yourselves, girls, be yourselves!

Meditations of a Married Woman

—BY HELEN ROWLAND

WHY GIRLS GET MARRIED

TIME was, when a girl knew exactly WHY she wanted to marry. She wanted love. She wanted a home. She wanted children. She wanted a provider. Or she wanted to get off the "old maid" list and to stop hearing her family apologize for her single-blessedness!

Marriage vindicated her existence, gratified her vanity, annoyed her enemies and pacified her friends, all at the same time. Marriage WAS sweet!

But when you look at a modern, efficient young woman and the male annex she sometimes acquires, you cannot help wonder what DROVE her to it. Of course, most girls marry for LOVE—or for what they think is love—but there are still lots of subsidiary "reasons" which make marriage look alluring.

For instance, many a tired business girl has married just for the sake of having her breakfast in bed and her dinner in a dining room, instead of in a tea room or a "breakfast nook."

Many a successful business or professional woman has married just for the sake of "mothering" some man, having somebody "depending" on her, and thereby domesticating her life and giving it a real motif.

Many a lonely widow has stepped back to the altar, just for the sake of smelling cigar smoke around the house again, and hearing a watch wound at night. Just in order to have the day "punctuated" by a man's departure and return! Or to have someone around to make dinner worth getting and breakfast worth getting UP for. For, if a husband serves no other purpose, he divides the day into periods and gives the clock a meaning.

Many a bored divorcee has remarried, just in order to dodge the loneliness and futility of unattached middle age: and to make it worth while to sign a lease and order a daily newspaper.

All she asks of a man is that he be a symbol in her life—something to "keep up a home for," use as an escort and display to the servants and the neighbors as an apparent reason for her existence.

And many a thoroughly sophisticated, modernistic girl has rushed into marriage merely in order to escape from parental authority and try out her "theories of life" Many a girl has left a good home, where they listened for her latch key, to live in a two by-four flat and listen for a man's hatchkey.

And many a girl has married just in order to prove that she COULD; to get marriage out of her system and a husband off her MIND!

For the truth is, that NO woman is ORIENTATED until she is married! Her life may be brilliant, useful and beautiful—but it doesn't MEAN anything. For men and women, like shoes and gloves, were meant to come in pairs—and neither amounts to much without the other. THAT'S why they marry!

Missionary Societies Present Thank Offering Program

With Mrs. C. R. Beerbower of Calvary Evangelical church as the speaker, members of the Woman's Missionary society and Young People's Missionary circle of Greenwood Evangelical church held their annual thank offering service last night at the church. The sum of $18 resulted from opening of mite boxes.

Mrs. C. D. McCombs, president of the Missionary society, presided, and the meeting opened with singing of "Jesus Is Here." Mrs. Raymond Donaugh gave the scripture reading and Mrs. Frank Donaugh led in prayer. "We Thank Thee Our Father," was sung by the choir, after which Mrs. Lowell Cook gave a reading, "Mrs. Cantaford's Mite Box." Miss Martha Weaver entertained with a clarinet solo and the program closed with singing of "I Love To Tell the Story."

A few drops of ammonia added to the water when washing pantry shelves will help to keep ants away and a few drops sprinkled in the cupboard will keep moths away.

SALE PLANNED

King's Daughters Seek To Complete Bill Home Fund

Plans for a rummage and white elephant sale to be given Friday and Saturday by the City union, King's Daughters, in a storeroom at the rear of Kleinmaier's store, South Prospect st., are being formulated at the present time.

The proceeds will be added to the fund for a home for the Bill family, of which both father and mother are blind. About $250 is needed. The King's Daughters have requested that any one having material to be sold, if unable to leave it at the storeroom, call any member of the committee in charge, Mrs Earl Kennedy, Mrs. L. L. Lamborn, Mrs. H. J. Lower, Mrs. J. C. Scheiler and Mrs. Edward Thibaut. The material will be called for Thursday.

ON TIFFIN PROGRAM

Mrs. H. K. Mouser, South Prospect st., is appearing before the Tiffin Woman's club this afternoon and will talk on "The Importance of Music" after which she will present a group of piano numbers. The music department of the club is entertaining for the other departments in the organization at this meeting.

BABIES GAIN BY THIS SIMPLE METHOD

Doctors say, souring waste in baby's digestive tract is usually back of any failure to gain weight according to schedule. And the best proof, this is true, is the quick way, weak, fretful puny babies improve when you cleanse their stomach and bowels and put them in order with a few doses of purely-vegetable, pleasant-tasting Fletcher's Castoria. This gentle, harmless preparation is the doctor's first thought to relieve those ills of babies and children, such as colic, gas, constipation, diarrhea, colds, etc. Just be sure you get genuine Castoria in the bottle that bears the Fletcher signature.—Adv.

An Unusual Romance of Love and Sacrifice

CHAPTER 30

M getting so I just loathe art ...hool!" Crystal told Ralph. And ...s she spoke the truth.

This morning was particularly ...d. She was trying to draw a ... A silly, plaster foot. And why ...e wanted to draw feet was ...ing Crystal couldn't understand. ...ds were her specialty. Art School! This was no more like ... she had read about art ... than that charcoal smudge on ... paper was like the ugly plaster ... on the pedestal.

Where were the gay parties, where were the handsome men, and the life classes, and the sketching expeditions? Oh yes, they had life classes, but you couldn't join them until you had had charcoal, and plaster casts, and you couldn't go sketching until you had elementary drawing—and who wants to be bothered with that?

"What have I got out of this? Nothing? Not even any parties. If it hadn't been for Avery Woodward I wouldn't have had any art life at all. This is no fun!" she thought disconsolately. "I'll go crazy if I have to do this much longer . . . I can't draw that foot!' I'm too artistic to do ugly things like that . . . I wish I hadn't fallen out with Avery, he understood me . . . I could learn more from him in five minutes . . . he knows how I feel about color, and line, and drawing from life . . ."

She chewed on her eraser, lost in thought.

Miss Tompkinson, the teacher, came and looked at her drawing. "Oh, Miss Garrothy—this is all wrong!" she cried. And then with her crooked bit of charcoal she made black lines on Crystal's drawing, ruining it completely.

With a smothered oath, Crystal tore it off the board and crumpled it into a ball which she threw on the floor, and trampled under her sharp, high heel.

Miss Tompkinson, a sallow, elderly woman with a mop frizzy gray hair, watched her. "Really," she drawled, "you must cultivate patience. Patience, to an artist—"

"Artist!" Crystal hissed through clenched teeth. "You look like an artist, you do! If you're one, I don't want to be one. And I don't want to draw any more bunyon ads, and I won't either. So there!"

Two or three turned and looked at her, but no one paid much attention. With a contemptuous "Tut, tut," Miss Tompkinson turned away. "That's good," she told the little Italian girl at the next easel. "Splendid feeling!"

Feeling! For a foot! Crystal washed her dirty hands, and went home.

But it was lonely in the apartment. Lonely and quiet. She turned on the radio and tried to read. That was worse. How do people live without excitement?

She'd go to the head of the school tomorrow, and demand to be taken into the life class, or a sketching class, anyway. She'd show this Miss Tompkinson!

In the meanwhile she'd phone Ralph, and go for a ride.

"I'm sorry, but he's occupied," the phone girl said.

"But I must speak with him. It's important! This is Miss Garroty!"

"I'm sorry, Miss Garroty. I'll ask him to call you later."

Oh damn! A whole afternoon, and nothing to do with it. Shopping? No, she couldn't even do that, for the little money Ralph gave her was needed for other things. Horribly expensive, keeping up an apartment. Too much for a girl alone.

She looked at herself in the mirror, and brightened a little. "I am a beauty!" she thought with satisfaction. "With a little luck I certainly ought to land something good. Other girls, not nearly so good looking have made brilliant matches . . . of course most of them were in the movies, or on the stage . . . I don't care about that, I'd rather just get married. . . I'm just wasting my time on McKevitt, what's he got? He'd probably want to live here or in some dinky place like this. . ."

She looked around the apartment that had seemed so luxurious when she first moved in. The gleaming floor, the bright silk curtains, the grand piano that was never used. . . Nice. . .but nothing much. . ."It's all cheap junk really, no antiques or anything. When I think of what some girls have. . .trips to Europe, and 10-room apartments and sables and real pearls . . ."

But how are you going to meet these dispensers of sables and real pearls? McKevitt probably knew some likely prospects, but a fat chance of his introducing them! He never took her anywhere, except to a show, or a hotel to dine and dance. Never introduced her to a soul. "I'm not taking any chance on losing you!" he said when she twitted him about it.

And here she was, all alone, not knowing a soul except McKevitt, and Avery Woodward . . . and she'd sent Avery away.

At least Avery knew a few people, and didn't mind introducing them. That little fat man with the diamond stickpin . . . why hadn't she thought of him before? Didn't he pay $750 for one of Avery's daubs? If that isn't a sign of a wealthy sucker, what is? Avery would introduce her if she worked it right . . .

—Avery . . . to think of him all alone in his shack, and she all alone here. Avery with his beautiful, sophisticated love making, his fascinating indifference . . . Avery, whom she had sent away . . .

She began to walk up and down restlessly. Her cheeks began to burn. What a mess she'd made of things . . . She should have stayed with Avery, and quit art school. All her excitement, and Ralph hadn't noticed a thing . . . You could put anything over on him!

Art school! What did that get you? Nothing. At least there would be studio parties at Avery's, and he did know a few rich men . . .

If he was surprised when she came into his shack just before 6 o'clock that evening, he didn't show it.

"That you, sweetheart?" he mumbled, stretching his long neck, and rolling over on the couch where he was lying, smoking, and reading.

She came toward him, trailing a fox scarf, smiling a little self-consciously, not quite sure of her reception.

Her gloved hand touched his cheek lightly. "Who did you think it was?"

He grinned. "Oh, one of my admirers. Some female pursuing me!" But he took her into his arms, straining her to him passionately, kissing her ruffled golden hair, loving her. And she forgot what she had come to say.

"Oh Avery—I can't get along without you! It's no use trying. I love you! I love you!"

"My kitten," he murmured, holding her close. "My kitten scratched me last night!"

So when Ralph called to take Crystal to dinner, he found the apartment empty, and left a little note in the mail box.

It had been a hard day. He and Allan had clashed furiously over a small matter of office policy. Allan was changing. Getting to be as bad as old Greely . . . and there had been a distressing scene with Greely too. He wished that there was someone to talk to, someone who would understand.

Perhaps for the first time in his life, he thought seriously of marriage. If he and Crystal were married she'd be there in the apartment waiting for him. A dozen pictures of Crystal floated through his mind. Crystal, in a gay little housedress, pouring coffee. . .Crystal on his arm, the envy of all beholders, at some important function . . . Crystal, lovelier than ever, swathed in folds of Madeleine Mac, smiling down at the child in her arms. . . .

And because he was lonely, and wanted to talk to someone, he turned the car toward Geary st., and Daphne.

How Science Fights Fat

Not by starving

Some 25 years ago, scientists found a great cause of excess fat. It lies in an under-active gland. By thousands of tests on fat animals they found that treating this cause led to loss of weight and gain in health and vigor. That discovery changed the methods of dealing with excess fat.

That is the basic factor in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for over 20 years—millions of boxes of them. They did not starve or overwork. They simply took four tablets daily until weight came down to normal.

Users told the others the results. The use of Marmola spread. Now you see the results in every circle. Excess fat is disappearing. Slender figures are the rule. New youth and beauty, new vitality, has come to countless people in this modern way.

Consider these facts. Then, if you are seeking like results, get them in this scientific way. Every box of Marmola contains the formula, also the reasons for results. As fat departs and new vitality returns you will know exactly why. Try the method which for 20 years has brought such delightful results to so many. Do it now. You owe that to you rself.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Love's Awakening

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affection

BY ADELE GARRISON

UNINTENTIONALLY I had spoken only part of the truth when I told Katherine that I could only consider one thing until the Brixtons left and that was the guarding of Lillian against whatever scheme Samuel Brixton and his half-brother might have planned. I had Marion and Ronald very definitely on my mind, and though I approved of the drive to see the sunrise on the ocean which the two young people had scheduled, I felt that, considering Lillian's ignorance of the little trip, I must get up before the youngsters and provide the conventional hostess-chaperon background. I knew Lillian's ideas concerning Marion, almost archaic in this modern age, and incongruous with her own rather hectic career. She would not wish any boy to think that Marion's mother or some woman representing her was not always in the background, carefully watchful of her welfare.

I set my alarm clock for an hour before sunrise, but when I had dressed and opened my door, I found Ronald standing at the head of the stairs. His alarm clock had been purely mental I was sure, and I smiled to myself at the unconscious eagerness in the boy's face as he greeted me.

"Good-morning, Mrs. Graham!" he said. "I do hope I'm not too late. I forgot to ask what time sunrise comes at this time of the year—it isn't very often that I see it—" he interpolated with an apologetic little smile, "and I've been lying awake an awful long time trying to figure it out. Is Miss Marion up yet? I don't want her to beat me."

Copyright, 1929, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

"Oh! good-morning, Auntie Madge," she said, giving a bright little nod to Ronald. "Are you going with us? How perfectly lovely!"

Ronald echoed her dutifully, and out of sheer mischief, I prolonged the uncertainty, knowing that a third person would be distinctly superfluous in even this most innocuous of trips.

"I would like to go," I said truthfully. "Sunrise on the ocean is one of the most beautiful things on my mental picture gallery. But I very much doubt that I can manage it. It isn't time to start yet, however. Come downstairs to the kitchen, and get a glass of hot milk and a roll or sandwich apiece before you start. It's too chilly a morning to go out without anything to eat."

"I'm always ready to eat," Ronald declared boyishly, and proved it when he reached the kitchen. When he had brought the roadster to the side door, I told them that I could not accompany them. They were too well bred to show the relief I knew they felt, but as their merry chatter floated back to me, I had a sudden misgiving. Should I have gone with them after all? I knew that I would not have accompanied them had Marion been my own daughter, but it is far harder to make decisions for other people's children than for one's own.

As I turned back from the veranda, I met Lillian in bathrobe and slippers, and obviously disturbed.

"Have you seen Marion?" she asked worriedly. "She is not in her room, and I thought I heard her voice outside the house just now."

Just Things

BY EDNA B. DUTTON

ON THE WAY

NOW that we have all found out what the well dressed turkey wore for Thanksgiving the big event is Christmas, and this is not far in the offing. I'll bet a thin dime that the girl who is going to help you decide on a half dozen or more Christmas gifts, knows to the second just how long it will be, too. Early Christmas buying is urged by everybody from the toymaker to the last court, the head of the firm, but just as sure as the season arrives there's a crop of last minute shoppers to wonder why they can't find something that looks just as perky as a new license plate. And, aside from a few chronics, the crop seems to be made up of new ones. Whether the old timers reform and emulate the example set by the early bird, or make up their minds to wait until the rush is all over, is difficult to decide.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

I GLEANED in a journey through the stores that there's one bit of Christmas shopping men like to do and that is buy Christmas cards. "It's because a man can choose one to suit himself," one girl explained. He doesn't have to look at it draped across the manly chest of the recipient nor be haunted by its presence every time he goes to call on the chap with whom he likes to play golf. Nobody has to eat it and there's no worry about it not being the right size. It's just a hale and hearty hello, ranging from the dignified hunting scenes to humorous ones that wish a pen full of well wishing on the holiday.

PROVERBS

OLD saws about this and that still cling, in spite of the fact that there are those who pan them as stuff and nonsense. Weather proverbs are probably as "clingy" as most of them and I guess there are times when they hit the nail on the head. Old timers, casting an eagle eye skyward, can tell by a flock of birds just about when to look for snow, while a sailor, beholding a rainbow in the sky in the evening, seeks his couch without fear of storm. According to the proverb, though, a rainbow in the morning calls for caution, for it is taken as a warning. "When the grass is dry at morning light, look for rain before the night," and "when the dew is on the grass, rain will never come to pass," are two other good ones.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Sunday, and my aunt got even with me for not being able to wash my face the Sunday before, on account her wrist was lame. She had my mouth and nose and eyes chasing each other all around my face to keep out of the way of the soap, but she caught them and gave them what was coming to them.

After Sunday School let out we all got our skates and went down to the pond and it was a sunshiny and clear day and almost warm enough to melt the snow so that we opened up our overcoats and went around on the ice with our coats flopping like we were bats with black wings flying around. Then we gathered up the railroad ties the railroad men had scattered and left because they was partly burnt, and made another fire of them; and we were all pretty dirty and black when we got home to dinner from handling them. My aunt was giving me another wash before dinner when we all heard a crash. My aunt dropped me and everyone else dropped everything else and we skun out the front door, and there was a big auto across the street from Farrell's with its front wheels though the fence, and Farrell's flivver was laying bottom side up in the middle of the street. A fat man was just climbing out of the big car, and when he got out he looked it all over, and then he was starting to look at the number on Mr. Farrell's flivver when Mr. Farrell came running out and took a look and asked the fat man what he meant by knocking his car bottom side up. The fat man walked up to Mr. Farrell and said for two cents he would knock him bottom side up. I sure wished I had two cents to give him. Then Mr. Farrell stuck out his chin and asked him, "You and who else?" And then my grandfather, who looks old and respectable the way he dresses up on Sundays asked the man how it happened. The fat man said Mr. Farrell's car came running backwards out of his drive with nobody in it, so fast that he bumps it before he could turn out. His car wasn't hurt any so after a while he went and we all helped Mr. Farrell turn his car over again, and it ran back in the yard like nothing had happened, and we all went in the house.

Today was Monday and is school day, an all the kids are getting polite to each other, and Mush's wife is being nice to all the kids because Christmas is so near. Mush's wife thinks we'll chip in and buy her a turkey, and maybe we will. I would like to know where I am going to get any spondulix for Christmas. Every time I look at JubDee he seems to think I am going to sell him the ring he wore his hair in. I wouldn't sell him if Tunnie never got a present.

Dora can't come!

Today, and every day, a lot of women count their time to suffer. As regularly as the months come 'round, comes pain that is borne in silence. "It's Nature," women say. But it isn't!

Women who have always had the hardest time, have no pain at all from the day they discover Midol.

Midol is the special preparation of specialists, and is not a narcotic. It does nothing to the menstrual process. It does stop the pain—in five to seven minutes! So it is only common sense to use it. And it costs just fifty cents, at any drugstore in tiny carrying case of aluminum.—Adv.

ttacks on Bible Create ital Task for Believers, emorial Speaker Says rts of Modernists To Destroy Faith in Scriptures nswered by W. N. Harder in Address at Annual Elks' Services; Impressive Program Given at Lodge Hall

N Harder, Marion attorney principal speaker in the an orial services of Marion N) 32, B P O Elks, held ge hall on South State st ave a tribute to the lodge's al Ten members of the lodge ng the last year

Declaring that Lincoln's Gettysburg address is beyond doubt the greatest memorial message ever given in the English language and probably in any language, Mr Harder used its theme largely as the basis for his talk

He placed emphasis on the thought that while the living can not add to or detract from the records of those who have died the living can dedicate their futures to carrying on the good work done by those who have departed

Attacks of Critics

Attacks being made upon authenticity of the Bible by modern critics and unbelievers provide an important work for Americans who hold to the faith Mr Harder said He expressed the opinion that much of this supposed unbelief is merely from the lips. Those who assail the Bible and the doctrine of immortality actually contradict themselves when they show unquestioned confidence in the creative and never-ending processes of nature, he asserted

Pointing to Clarence Darrow as an outstanding leader in the ranks of modern agnostics Mr Harder said that they are basing their claims solely on things material

"The unseen the spiritual are the things that live," the memorial speaker declared

America, now at the peak of its power financially needs to turn its attention to spiritual things, Mr Harder said

Warner Gives Eulogy

The memorial program attended by an audience of approximately 200 comprising lodge members and their families, also included a eulogy given by Fred W Warner the lodge ritualistic services and vocal numbers by John F Lacey

Mr Lacey's numbers were," Requiem" Sidney Homer, 'O, Divine Redeemer Gounod and 'Vale D Ayer His piano accompaniments were played by Mrs Lacey

The memorial ritual was exemplified by the corps of lodge officers comprising T E Prettyman exalted ruler, T A O Leary, esteemed leading knight Frank Wiedemann esteemed loyal knight, Carter Pattion esteemed lecturing knight James Work chaplain, E H Huggins secretary and C R Leavens esquire

The 10 members of Marion lodge who have died since last years memorial service with the dates of their deaths, are listed as follows Schiller Fogleson, Dec 25, 1927, S P Bishop Feb 20, 1928, Joseph G Wark March 5 O S Rapp, March 28, John S Beale, May 10, W L Guthery July 14 J M Brigel Sept 6, J A. Reed Sept 13 W. W Sanders, Sept 20 Charles Arnold, Nov 16

The memorial service was arranged by a committee headed by Jay Vaughan as chairman

FIVE ESCAPE FROM CHILLICOTHE PRISON

Armed Guards Scour Section of Country; All Dyer Act Offenders

Chillicothe, Dec 3—Armed guards today scoured the jungle-like, heavily-wooded banks of Paint Creek and other streams near here today, and others patrolled the highways and back roads in this section seeking five men who escaped from the United States reformatory here last night.

The fugitives, none of whom has been yet recaptured, are William J Babartunck, 19 - sentenced from Charleston, W. Va., Harry Colent, 17, sentenced from Chicago C W. Stewart 22, sentenced from Charleston, S C., Charles Creek, 20, sentenced from Chicago and William Carter, 22 All were serving varying terms as first offenders under the Dyer act.

Wearing blue denim and distinguished in no way from ordinary farm laborers, the men slipped away from the unbarred buildings shortly after dusk fell last night. Their absence was first discovered at 7:35 p. m., and guards sounded an alarm. Two surveying planes near the reformatory's boundaries drew shots from the guards when they disregarded a command to halt and raced into a clump of underbrush

Auto is Stolen

Three guards searched the underbrush but the men had disappeared

Although Chillicothe police were on the alert the automobile of Wilson Bills a tobacco salesman, was stolen during the night by two men who are believed to have been involved in the escape.

The reformatory at Chillicothe without walls and with doors and windows unbarred, is the nature of a "psychological experiment," it was said by a reformatory official today. Overflow first offenders from federal prisons throughout the country, mostly Leavenworth and Atlanta, are sent here and placed "on their honor." Despite the fact that escape is comparatively an easy matter, considering the usually heavily barred and guarded federal prisons, escapes have been unusually infrequent.

Discolored handkerchiefs should be soaked all night in a solution of pipe clay and warm water; the next day, wash and boil in the usual way.

When cooking gooseberries, add a pinch of carbonate of soda and you can reduce the quantity of sugar for sweetening by about one third.

A cake which sticks to the tin may be loosened by placing the tin over a bowl of boiling water.

Morrow County Fair Officers Elected; Dates Changed

CHESTERVILLE MAN NAMED PRESIDENT

B. M. Orr Succeeds D. B. Sipe as Agricultural Society Head

SET OCTOBER DATES

New Schedule for Fair Expected to Eliminate Source of Past Difficulties

Mt. Gilead, Dec. 3—In its regular annual meeting here Saturday the Morrow County Agricultural society elected officers for 1929 and changed the date of the Morrow county fair for next year.

B. M. Orr, of Chesterville, was elected president to succeed D. B. Sipe, Fred Porter, of Marengo, was elected to vice president to succeed B. M. Orr, Lloyd Dye, of Mt. Gilead, was reelected secretary, and Clay Snyder, of Congress township, was reelected treasurer.

Reasons for Change

Next year the fair will be held on Oct. 8, 9, 10 and 11. Secretary Dye stated that there were several reasons for changing the date. The weather has been consistently bad the last four years, while on the new dates there has been only one day of rain in that time. Probably the most important reason is the interference with farm activities when held in the third week of September. The new dates are expected to eliminate these objections. This will throw the dates for the Morrow county fair the same as the Lancaster fair.

H. C. Harris, a member and for many years president of the society, tendered his resignation Saturday, announcing that his election as commissioner of Morrow county would prevent further activity in the society. T. C. Curl, of Cardington township, was elected to succeed him.

Delegate Named

B. M. Orr, president, was elected delegate to the Ohio Fair Managers association, which will meet in Columbus at the Neil house, Jan. 15, 16 and 17. Fred Porter, vice president, was elected alternate. Secretary Dye will attend by virtue of his office.

Dye announced several suggestions that would probably come up before the association. Among these are co-operative advertising and co-operative buying of amusements, rain insurance, etc., and selection of a man to keep an office open all year in Columbus in the interest of county fairs.

Dye stated that total expenses incurred in the last Morrow county fair, together with the maintenance of the grounds and the payment of nearly $3,000 on debts and in interest reached a total of $11,480.63. There is a balance of $172.01 in the hands of the board.

WYANDOT COUNTY CLUB PRESENTS PROGRAM

Kenton, Dec. 3—A program of sacred music was presented before hundreds of Kenton music lovers Sunday afternoon when the Wyandot County Glee Club appeared in concert at the First Presbyterian church of which Rev. E. V. Belles is pastor. Chorus, quartet, duet and vocal numbers completed the delightful program, the singers being directed by F. T. Peters, of Upper Sandusky.

NAMED COMMANDER

Kenton Man Reelected G. A. R. Head for Sixth Year

Kenton, Dec. 3—Thomas Haggard, prominent Kenton resident, has been elected commander of the Cantwell Post, G. A. R., for the coming year, having filled this office for the past six years.

Despite the fact that less than 10 veterans of the Civil war still survive to compose the veterans' organization, the post is active and takes part in numerous ceremonies.

Other officers of the post are: Joseph Isbler, senior vice-commander; Michael Maidlen, junior vice-commander; Mrs. Blanche James, chaplain; P. Smith, quartermaster; William Dinges, adjutant, and George Hulse, Amos Wheeler and Michael Maiden, delegates to the state and national encampments.

ANNOUNCE WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Sayre Leave on Wedding Trip by Motor

Galion, Dec. 3—Announcement has been made of the marriage of Grace M. Easterday, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Easterday, 425 Arthur st., Ashland, and Howard Martin Sayre, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Sayre, 221 N. Union st., this city. The ceremony took place at 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the parsonage of the First United Brethren church at Ashland, with the Rev. George Weatherbee, pastor of the church, reading the service. Mr. and Mrs. Sayre were unattended, and immediately following the ceremony left for a motor trip. Upon their return they will live for the present in Granville where Mr. Sayre is employed.

Mrs. Sayre has been employed as a stenographer at the F. D. Myers company, Ashland, since her graduation from Ashland high school in 1926 and Mr. Sayre is associated with the Kel Plumbing Co., of Piqua.

KENTON ELKS HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE

Rev. Schumaker Delivers Address Before Large Audience

Kenton, Dec. 3—Deepest impressiveness and solemnity marked annual memorial services conducted by the Kenton Lodge of Elks Sunday afternoon in tribute to the memory of deceased lodge brothers.

Hundreds of members and their friends filled the lodge rooms for the Lodge of Sorrow and heard the forceful address by the Rev. H. J. Schumacher, pastor of the Church of Immaculate Conception.

Preceding the memorial oration, officers of the lodge headed by Robert J. Wagner, exalted ruler, completed the lodge ritualistic service.

Appropriate music was sung by the choir of St. John's Evangelical church directed by Mrs. Ed Fink. Mrs. William Leoffert played the piano accompaniments.

Carey, Dec. 3—The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society and the Jennie Larmouth Missionary society of Christ Lutheran church held their annual Thankoffering service Sunday evening. Miss Alta Samuelson, worker in the Jewish Mission at Toledo gave an interesting talk. Miss Samuelson also brought a message in song. A playlet entitled, "Why We Are Thankful," was given by the children of the Light Brigade. The Thankoffering boxes were received.

A best seller makes present money; literature makes posthumous fame.

Pupils Present Program In Galion Concert Series

Galion, Dec. 3—Miss Florence MacDonald, soloist and vocal instructor, of Mansfield, presented a group of her pupils in recital yesterday afternoon as the fourth number of the Sunday concert series.

The first part of the program was devoted to selections from the great oratorios with numbers from "Elijah," "St. Paul" and "The Messiah" featuring. Leo Hans opened the program with a Handel number "Where'er You Walk" and Mrs. John Shipley, contralto, presented a solo from Mendelssohn's "St. Paul," "But the Lord Is Mindful."

Miss Kathryn Balliet had as her selection "Rejoice Greatly O, Daughter of Zion" from Handel's "Messiah" and Herman Clinzan sang "O God Have Mercy," another of St. Paul solo.

Each of the pupils was heard in a group of secular songs as the second part of the program.

Is Accompanist

Miss MacDonald appeared in one group of songs "Sylvelin," Sinding; "Beyond," Barnett; "Spirit Flower," Campbell-Tipton, and "Come, Child Beside Me," Fleischmann.

Theodore Schaefer, of this city, was accompanist for the recital using organ accompaniment for the oratorio selections and piano for the final portion of the program. As a close Mr. Schaefer played an organ number "Pomp and Circumstance," by Elgar.

District Briefs

MARENGO—Funeral services for Mrs. J. W. Porter, who died Friday, were held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the M. E. church here. Elder Shoemaker, of Ashley, officiated and interment was made in the Marengo cemetery.

KENTON—Mrs. Maud Isenberger, farm woman living north of here, is recovering from bruises and shock suffered when a large barn door became loosened from its rollers and fell on her. Her shoulder was badly bruised, however no bones were broken. Mrs. Isenberger was pinned to the ground for several minutes before she could free herself.

CAREY—The Mansfield Bears played the Carey Whippets here Sunday afternoon, with a score of 6-0 in favor of the Whippets.

MARYSVILLE — Union County Supt. of Schools J. A. Yealey announces the equipping of Union county schools with lantern and accessories for promotion of visual education is nearly completed. All schools in districts where electricity is available, including Richwood, Raymond, Unionville, Broadway, Magnetic Springs and Milford Center, have been installing attachments for the use of film strips and have joined with the Union county school board in the purchase of a Film Strip library.

BUCYRUS—The city fire department responded to a still alarm at the home of Charles Bowman, Charles and Walnut sts., at 6:50 Sunday morning where they extinguished a small fire in the kitchen. An electric iron, left connected all night, caused a hole to be burned through the ironing board and doing a little damage to the floor.

BUCYRUS—Boys from Bucyrus attending the State Hi-Y Older Boys club conference in Springfield, held Saturday and Sunday included Gayl Metzger, Don Taylor, Elmer Cosgrove, William Wise, Paul Young and Stanley Marzolf.

BUCYRUS—A meeting is scheduled to be held at the commissioners room of the courthouse Thursday afternoon, for the purpose of considering a proposal to form a county association trustees and clerks in Crawford county. The meeting, to which every one of the 48 township trustees in the county and each of the 16 township clerks have been invited to attend, is being sponsored by a state organization which hopes to organize a local chapter of trustees and clerks in this county.

BUCYRUS—A first mortgage and trust deed issued by the Reserve Power and Light company of Cleveland to the Union Trust company of Cleveland, securing an issue of $1,-200,000 worth of gold bonds was filed for record with County Recorder H. O. Sharp Saturday. The mortgage covers property in Crawford, Cuyahoga, Ashland, Lorain, Medina, Richland, Wayne and Morrow counties. The recording fee for the document was $27.

BUCYRUS—A verdict was awarded William Stumbaugh against Russell Morton Saturday afternoon for $545.70. The case was an action by Stumbaugh to collect the amount of the verdict for wages and money loaned.

Probably a defeated candidate feels the same resentment that a jilted lady-lure does.

GALION—Miss Dixie Bell Snyder of Galion, has been honored at Ohio Wesleyan where she is a freshman, by election to the Freshman Players, first year dramatic organization. Miss Snyder was one of the few chosen from more than 128 contestants and was credited with exceptional work in the tryouts. Miss Snyder was also elected to membership in the dancers club of the university. She is a pledge of Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

MARYSVILLE—A marriage license was issued here Saturday to Arnold J. Eberhard, 35, Raymond farmer, and Miss Josephine Mobley, 25, also of Raymond.

KENTON—Attorney Donald F. Melhorn of Toledo, former Hardin country prosecutor, and mother, Mrs. C. M. Melhorn, Kenton, will leave Thursday for Port au Prince where they will visit for a month with Dr. Kent Melhorn and family. Dr. Melhorn is a surgeon in the United States Navy and is now director general of public health service of Haiti and has spent four years in that country.

ASKS JUDGMENT

Morrow County Man Claims Employer Broke Contract

Mt. Gilead, Dec 3—A hearing was held in the case of Edna Perrin against Eber Perrin Saturday before Judge W. P. Vaughan in which the defendant was ordered to pay five dollars per week until all back alimony had been paid in full. Failure to do this commits the defendant to jail for contempt. The alimony is for the support of their minor child.

An appeal from the court of Justice of the Peace W. M. Kaufman, was filed in common pleas court Saturday by Ralph L. Gallaher against C. C. Cline, in which the plaintiff claims that he contracted to drive truck for the defendant at a fixed salary for one year. He claims that the defendant broke the contract without reason and discharged him. He secured work and earned some money but not as much as he would have earned in his former position. He claims that there is a difference of $147.48 between the money he earned and the amount he should have earned under the contract and asks judgment for this amount. Benj Olds is the attorney for the plaintiff.

At a quiet ceremony Miss Helen Vaske, of Greensburg, and Joseph Callender, son of Mr. and Mrs R. H. Callender, Cherry-st, this city, were united in marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Callender will make their home in Greensburg, where Mr. Callender is employed as signal maintainer of the Big Four railway company. Mr. Callender is well known locally, having graduated from Galion high school in 1926.

MANSFIELD MAN PLACED ON PROBATION

Bucyrus, Dec. 3— Judge Walter Wright deferred imposition of sentence and placed Andrew Hiler, indicted here by the September grand jury for shooting his wife, Mae, with intent to kill, and who shortly after his indictment pleaded not guilty to that charge, on probation with orders to report to the office of the sheriff every 60 days. Hiler shot his wife when he found her at the home of her sister here.

If a man could wear $3,000 worth of clothes in attending grand opera would he like it better?

MOTORISTS SUFFER MINOR INJURIES

Bucyrus Driver Crashes Into Fire Hydrant in Effort To Avoid Collision

Bucyrus, Dec. 3—Three wrecks were reported in the vicinity of Bucyrus during the week-end.

A Ford touring car belonging to Wesley Miller and a Rickenbacker coupe belonging to Ed. Hedeen were damaged in a collision Saturday night at the corner of South Walnut and Warren sts. The driver of the Ford in an effort to avoid the accident ran into a fire hydrant at the corner, demolishing the front of the car.

Ervin Snavely escaped possible serious injuries about 5 o'clock Sunday morning when the light sedan which he was driving run off of the road when he fell asleep at the wheel causing considerable damage to the car. Snavely was somewhat bruised and sustained several cuts from flying glass. The accident occurred on the Oceola road about four miles from Bucyrus.

Two persons were taken to the hospital where they were treated for cuts and bruises and two others escaped injury when a Buick sedan crashed into a ditch on the Scioto Trail about six miles from Bucyrus about 1 o'clock Sunday night. The occupants of the car who were from Delaware, failed to reveal their names. The accident occurred when a tire from the car blew out, causing the driver to lose control of the car. The car was damaged.

The Funeral From Our Home

OUR special, modernly constructed building furnishes every residence-like appointment: for the remains to rest, awaiting interment; a reception room for friends; a private room for the family; a service room—every requirement of home, but better equipped for the funeral than the home contains or permits. And with the other far advanced ideas which distinguish our finer service, conducting the funeral from our home has become most preferred: especially, too, because there is no added cost. That is an advantage worth knowing now, and to consider at the time most required.

Jim Thorpe Rated As Greatest Backfield Man In Football

JAMES THORPE

No player in football history a wider fame than Jim Thorpe, the Indian halfback from Carlisle.

Played Halfback, Carlisle Indian School, 1908-11-12. Home: Oklahoma Reservation. Winner Olympic Decathlon 1912. Winner Olympic Pentathlon 1912. All-American: 3rd Team 1908. All-American: 1st Team 1911,12. Professional Baseball New York Giants. Professional Football many years. Star Player of Lacrosse. Ancestry: Indian. Height: 6.1. Weight: 190. Speed: 10s. Coach: Warner. Placed on everybody's All-Time All-American Team.

By JOHN W. HEISMAN

ENTERING Carlisle in 1908 it wasn't long before rival colleges began to take note that in Jim Thorpe was a redskin whose foot was even more to be feared than his tomahawk. Probably no player ever pointed more consistently, for distance, for height, for dependability in getting rid of them—and but one man, perhaps, ever fairly matched arm for precision in placing them; that was George Brooke, of Penn.

He was equally as clever with his place kicking, scoring three field goals in one day against Penn State in his freshman year, one of them from the 45-yard line. In 1911 he shot four of them between the uprights and over the bar in one pleasant afternoon against Harvard, one from the 48-yard line. Once started in his "career of crime" he kept it up all his days—and they were longer than those of any other man that played the game. Even after 40 years of age, Jim, playing professional ball, was a sharpshooter to be feared mightily with his ponderous toe.

WAS Thorpe a more brilliant runner than Heston—than Mahan—than Grange? There's no way to put the yard stick to all or any of them. Probably he was lazier than the white players, perhaps he had a shade less speed than Heston. But recall that Jim scored 25 touchdowns and 198 points in one season—1912, a record which no other back can duplicate. Touchdowns mean RUNNING with the ball, and every player that ever tried to tackle Thorpe in the open field will testify that he was the next thing to a cannonball in flight for speed and power combined.

No, he didn't like to hit the line, but when he had it to do to win—as on a wet field—he could do it with either Heston, Hare or Coy. But around the end—all adjectives fail.

HERE he goes around Penn's end in 1911. He rounds the caps by sheer speed, the tackling half sprays off him as a wave from Gibraltar, he cuts back between two others, stiff-arms a fourth, hurdles still another, outsprints the next and last man for a margin at the side line, then on down for full 80 yards and a touchdown. The next year he pulls another 80-yard run against Penn and scores a second touchdown against the Quakers the same day; scores two touchdowns against Army, three against Brown, etc., etc.

Jim played after forward passing came in, and he could fling 'em far, wide and handsome—with anybody. He was deceitful with it, too—made you swear he was going to hurl the ball in one direction but wound up by flinging it altogether differently. He used both brain and brawn; sometimes he used extreme power, again he seemed merely shifty. He was cagey and crafty, with the intuition of an athlete descended from a hundred generations of athletic ancestors. He had the speed of a hawk, the strength of an ox, the slipperiness of an eel, the cunning of a fox, the courage of a bull dog. And he NEVER got hurt. When asked about that he replied, "How could anybody get hurt in this game?"

ALONG with Heffelfinger and Hare, Thorpe is picked by all "pickers" for the All-Time, All-American always. Many expert judges consider that he was the finest all-around athlete the world has produced. It must take a special quality and a special nerve control thereof to produce such results.

The king is dead!—for Thorpe's playing days are over at last. Long live the king!

WALSH NAMES ALL-AMERICAN

Only Backfield Men Stand Out in Past Season: Good Linemen Scarce with Fessler, Ohio State, Being Outstanding End

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

AFTER a football season in which everybody that happened to be anybody to be a backfield man, the possibilities for going wrong in the selection of an All-American team may seem to be excellent. It is the assumption of Mrs. Walsh's boy todoubtedly he has gone over, reading from left to right and from front to rear. As a matter of fact, the man doesn't live who can name the 12 best backs of the year from the staggering list at hand and make everybody like his work.

There has been no attempt, however, to apportion backfield stars by the positions they occupied during the season. Both Cagle and Strong ran to their right but I don't see what that has to do with it. They were the best runners of the season and what we are trying to do is arrive at a selection of the four leaders and place them in one backfield. I happen to think they were Cagle, Strong, Mitzell and Soull.

This alignment shunts Harpster to the second team where, possibly he doesn't belong. However, some one must suffer for the extremely prodigality of backs this year and Harpster's position in this respect is no worse than that of scores of fine ball players who don't make the riffle anywhere. Long as the following list may be, it isn't complete, at that: Cruisinier, Wisconsin; Brazil, Detroit; Glasgow, Iowa; Holmer, Northwestern; Bennett, Indiana; Welsh, Purdue; Gillespie, Villanova; Thomason, Georgia Tech; Banker, Tulane; McEver, Tennessee; Weston, Boston College; Nagurski, Minnesota; McLain, Iowa; Wittmer, Princeton; Schober, Pennsylvania; Nicolet and Chevigny, Notre Dame; French and Guarnaccia, Harvard; Miles, Princeton; Sloan, Nebraska; Maple, Oregon Aggies; Fleishhacker and any one of three other Standard backs; Clark, Colorado; Follet, N. Y. U., Karcis, Carnegie Tech, Williams, Southern California; Traugor, Iowa State, Baysinger, Syracuse; Couch, Utah; Thomas, Southern California; Gebert, Marquette, and Peake, one of the best in the south.

Barring Fesler, there with no real ends this year. Strong ran around Rosenzweig a bit but that was Ken's way and besides, the rest of the field was mediocre. Smith, Boston College, was only a part-time end but what he did on these occasions was enough to get him on the second team.

Outside of those named for the teams, Nowak, Illinois; Perry, Army; Mooney, Georgetown; Douds, W. and J.; Tinsley, Louisiana State; and O'Connell, Allegheny, were good but not extraordinary. Pinneraning is supposed to be the stand-out, followed by Miller, Hibbs, Southern California, fell away to nothing. Lassman? He got a great ballyhoo. Al simply had a very strong buck.

The guards weren't much but Post and McMullen were the best. Gibson was a good man and Hagler got in through his experience and aggressiveness. Robesky, Stanford; Dumont, Colgate; Beloin, Fordham; Thompson, Lafayette; Steel, Florida; Farris, North Carolina; Magai, Pennsylvania, and Drennon, Georgia Tech, were some of the other leaders.

Pund was the center of the country, followed by Howe, Princeton; Randolph, Indiana; Moynihan, Notre Dame; West Gate, Pennsylvania; Heinecke, Stanford; Jonas, Utah and James, Nebraska.

Some people never do a charitable act unless there is some one around to applaud.

CHRISPIN DRUGS WIN OVER NASH MOTORS

Local Team Scores 1000 Total in Second Game at Ashland

Coming back strong in the last two games, the Chrispin Drugs Saturday night defeated Nash Motors of Ashland on the Ashland Recreation Alleys. The final score was 2837 to 2675 with the locals bringing home the bacon by a margin of 162 pins. The Marion team had its big moment in the second when the five-man total went to 1000. With scores of 593, Steinmetz and Zeisler led both teams.

The Ashland bowlers will roll here Saturday night in a return match. The scores:

CHURCH CAGE LOOP WILL OPEN DEC. 18

Dec. 10 Last Date To Enter; Meeting Scheduled for Tonight

Marion county Sunday School basketball teams will swing into action on Tuesday night, Dec. 18, it was announced by F. O. Rudolph, physical director of the Y. M. C. A.

A meeting will be held tonight when final rules to govern league play will be drawn up. The final date for entrance to the league is Dec. 10 when the season's schedule will be drawn up.

Teams entered to date are: Senior—Wahlo Lutherans, Central Christians, Trinity Baptist and Epworth; Intermediate; Junior—Central Christian, Epworth and Trinity Baptist.

If a woman only knew her husband as well before marriage as she does after the chances are that she would marry some other fellow.

ALUMNI PREPARE FOR FRAY HERE

Former Members of Red and Black Cage Squad Scheduled To Meet Compton's Varsity on Star Floor Dec. 27: Opening Practice Held at Y. M. C. A.

IF intensive practice means anything the Harding Alumni cagers are going to make a real bid for a victory in this year's renewal of the annual court classic between the former wearers of the Red and Black and the present varsity.

Hugh Shults, all-tournament guard of two years ago, will lead the "grads" in their attempt to down the Compton machine, which is of a rather unknown quantity so far. The first practice of the old-timers was held last Friday afternoon at the "Y" gym. About 10 former wearers of the Red and Black were present, in an attempt to regain their shooting eyes of past seasons.

According to Coach Shults the "grads" starting lineup will be composed of the seniors on last year's combine. Charles Evans, flashy forward of the past three years at the local school, will hold down one of the forward berths. He will have as his running mate Harding's utility man of last year, John Gillis. Gillis' fine floor work and deadly eye for the basket will be a hard problem for the "varsity" to solve.

The player whom Coach Compton called the most valuable man to the team last season will hold down the pivot position. This young man is none other than Bud Cram, guard on the mythical all-tournament team of last year.

The guard positions will be taken care of by "Bud" Lewis and Dicky Stafford, both lettermen on last year's quintet. Lewis, while not a great help on the offense, is a regular bear on the defense, being classed as one of the best guards in Harding cage history. Stafford who is now attending Ohio Wesleyan, is well known to Harding athletic followers. "Ducky" in his senior year was rated as the best fullback in the N. C. O. and scored the winning touchdown in the memorable 7-6 battle with Mansfield.

After the regulars have played enough for the evening the reserve squad in the persons of Chalm Cline, Buddy Partridge, Joe Hunert and Coach Shults will take the floor. Cline, now at the University of Cincinnati, was a forward on last year's team and the lanky Partridge was center on the same outfit.

Marion Vanderhoff, now taking post-graduate work will manage the team and will have as his assistant, Bob Elliott, a member of last year's graduating class.

Shults announced that the final practices would be held as soon as the bulk of the team arrived back from college. This battle will be enacted on Dec. 27 at the Star auditorium.

Cards Change Again

Managerial changes in the big leagues continue to furnish plenty of fuel for the hot stove league. The latest and one of the most surprising is the naming of Billy Southworth as leader of the St. Louis Cardinals, the fifth change in as many years.

Southworth is known as a meek and modest young man. So much so that it is difficult to imagine him to be the slave driver type of leaders who can pound out successful teams.

St. Louis has been very successful in changing managers. The team has won its share of the pennants. Last summer Southworth won the International league championship with the Rochester Red Wings. Perhaps he can turn the same trick down at St. Louis but little money is being bet on his chances.

Few people worry themselves to death because of other people's hatred.

A player should never attempt to play Hamlet unless he has at least a ghost of a show.

Eagles To Open Pro Cage Season Here On Tuesday

By KARL R. McELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

ONCE upon a time a professional basketball season was opened without the customary cries of "first down" and "hit him low, big boy" coming from a few of the fans. But that was the time before football was a subject worthy of heated discussion over the morning newspaper and toast and coffee.

Those who take their football seriously and have much trouble in making the transition from one season to another will have their night Tuesday in Star auditorium when the Marion Eagles pry the lid off the local cage season by playing the Bliss Collegians of Columbus.

Tuesday night's game should mark the opening of Marion's greatest professional cage season. Not for a great many years has the city been represented by such a collection of stars as will be on the Eagles' team this season.

Robyer, Compton, Bacon, Taylor, Penry and Applegett are the stars of the local aggregation who will be seen in action throughout the season. Of this sextet, five are home town boys. Only Taylor, the center, has been brought in from the outside.

With a record of 91 games won and only 16 losses in the past three years, the Bliss Collegians rank as one of the best traveling teams in Ohio. The Columbus five have played here many years and its brand of basketball is well known to Marion fans.

The starting lineups of game follow:

Marion	Pos.	Bliss
Robyer	RF	Griffin
Penry	LF	Smith
Taylor	C	Meckling
Applegett	RG	Rouse
Bacon	LG	Steward

Compton will not start the game. The local coach and manager intends to watch the performance of his stars from the sidelines for at least half the game to locate any weakness in the offense and defense.

Ambition is often but a spur on a man's mind that ends by tripping him up.

Heavy Sales In Stock Market Forces Drop In Favorites

BULLS AFRAID OF MONEY SITUATION

Big Corporations Withdrawing Funds for Own Use During December

YELLOW TRUCK BREAKS

Radio Loses 10 Points; Other Issues Follow As Bulls Take Profits

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Editor

New York, Dec. 3—The bugaboo of congressional tinkering with the federal reserves act in such a way as to choke off the money supply from the stock market loomed large in Wall Street's vision as the market started its fifth big week today. Stocks were sold right and left, and the downward more in prices, which started on Saturday, continued in every section of the market, with losers in the first hour ranging from two to six points.

Time to get out, and take profits, said the pools, which have furnished the chief bally-hoo of the Hoover bull market.

It was no secret in Wall Street that the bulls are afraid of the money situation. There is plenty of money in this country, but it has been drawn on so heavily to keep the speculative pot boiling that the purse strings are tightening up.

The big corporations which have loaned their money at fancy interest rates are calling funds homeward for their own use. Money will be needed in December for the holiday trade and the bond market.

A big selling wave broke over the market, carrying the bulk of the favorites downward. The "bulge" in Yellow Truck collapsed, bringing the stock back to around 42, compared with last week's price of 57¾. Radio dropped 10 points in the first hour. Gold Dust, Victor Talking, Johns Manville and other famous leaders in last week's furious upward drive, crowled back to a lower price level under the pressure of persistent selling. Greene Cannnea copper dropped 11 points on the sale of one block of 10,000 shares.

GETS PROPOSAL

House To Debate on Planned Naval Limitation Conference

Washington, Dec. 3—The Britten proposal for an Anglo-American Legislators' conference on naval limitation will be placed before the house today.

Republican La Guardia, Republican of New York, will pave the way for congressional debate and possible action by introducing a resolution substantially embodying the proposal that Britten cabled to Premier Baldwin.

Asserting that he was in full sympathy with the idea of Representative Britten, Republican of Illinois, chairman of the naval affairs committee, La Guardia proposes to overcome state department opposition by directing Secretary Kellogg to transmit the plan to the British government in the form of a resolution.

Those who run the world like to do it, so they are not entitled to much commiseration.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Dec. 3—A sudden upturn in wheat prices Saturday was the only feature to an otherwise dull week of grain trading on the local exchange.

Following a period of intense bearish sentiment, when the bulk of operations was confined to changing of commitments before the December deliveries, a heavily oversold condition became apparent in the pit when light deliveries were constructed as bullish. Shorts covered freely and price losses of the early part of the week were more than recovered, wheat closing ½@1c above the previous Saturday's finish.

Corn Market Firm

Corn was firm and higher all week but the increase in the movement and prospects of colder weather caused persistent local pressure and gains were not large. In this grain, too, most of the trade was changing of options. Net advances for the week were ½@1½c.

Oats trade has been slow. There have been very light offerings from the country and buyers have withheld from the market. Prices ruled firm and finished the week with net gains of ½@¾c. Rye was irregular. The nearby delivery weakened under the prospects of large deliveries, but the future options were firm. The close Saturday showed the December off 1½c on the week. March ⅜c up, and May 1½c up.

A friendlier feeling toward the constructive side of the wheat market was in evidence Saturday when prices responded so easily to the short covering. Bearish news has been abundant, but despite the pressure of selling from the Northwest interests and local selling, the market has stubbornly refused to break.

Cash Interests Hold

This naturally leads to the conclusion that the market has strong support. All of the dips during the past week found good buying orders through commission houses on a scale down, and when the December tightened Saturday on the light initial deliveries shorts found that there were very small offerings of the deferred options to be bought without bidding up prices.

Cash interests appear reluctant to part with the actual wheat for delivery in the face of the difference in price between the December and May.

That a lot of the selling of the past week has not been real liquidation as was expected was shown Saturday when the total open interest in wheat showed a considerable increase. There is still a large short interest and with the present tightening of the cash situation, a better flour demand, the refusal of prices to break and the fact that it is now the calendar period to buy wheat, the market appears in a good position to respond to bullish news or an increase in outside interest.

Corn continues to be largely a weather affair. However, offerings from the country are not as large as expected, most of them apply on previous contracts and the cash demand took a turn for the better Saturday.

With the return of comparatively warm weather local retailers report that vegetable sales have become smaller. During the cold snap some days ago sales were unusually large here, especially in vegetables, although the pre-Thanksgiving spirit also had much to do with stimulating business.

This condition was blamed entirely on the perversity of human nature by one local dealer in retail fruits and vegetables this morning. When the weather is warm, he said, people believe that they can buy vegetables readily and so do not experience any particular desire for them. When the temperature starts to drop, however, housewives think that it is practically impossible to procure vegetables and the demand increases.

Although a rise in the wholesale price of cranberries as a result of local jobbers stocks becoming exhausted in the pre-Thanksgiving sales was expected by retailers here, no such increase in the wholesale quotation has yet been reported. However, although cranberries are again quite plentiful here, some retailers have raised their prices.

No price changes were reported on the retail fruit, vegetable and meat markets of the city this morning.

SAYS FEWER ALIENS MOVE INTO AMERICA

Davis' Report Shows 226,275 Immigrants Stay in Country Last Year

Washington, Dec. 3—Fewer aliens were admitted to the United States during the fiscal year which ended June 30 last than entered the previous year and proportionately fewer remained after they were admitted, according to Secretary of Labor Davis' annual report today.

During the last fiscal year 500,631 aliens were admitted as against 538,001 in 1927. Aliens who left the country during the year numbered 274,356 compared with 253,608 departures during the previous year, indicating a net gain of permanent immigrants of 226,275, compared with a net gain of 284,433 for 1927.

Davis' report shows that the immigration bureau was quite as active in expelling undesirable aliens during the year as the year before.

Last year 11,625 aliens were arrested and deported, as compared with 11,662 the year before, and 10,904 for the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1926. Of the deportees last year, 5,021 went back to Europe; 2,511 to Canada; 2,334 to Mexico, and 532 to other countries of the western hemisphere. Asia got 529 back, and 98 were divided among Africa, Australia and the Pacific islands.

Like a chart leading to buried treasure

WHEN treasure hunters set out in search of hidden wealth, years ago, they were guided in their quest by the chart on which a cross marked the exact spot which they sought. Buried treasures were not easy to find in those days and without the help of such a chart the search would have been hopeless—the pirates had usually seen to that!

Right at this season it may seem to you that even the most desperate pirates couldn't have made it more difficult to locate their hoards than it is for you to find the appropriate gifts you want to buy for Christmas.

But just as the secret charts led old-time adventurers to Spanish gold, so will the modern Shop-o-scope—the Christmas Gift Suggestions Columns of our Classified Section, lead you directly to shopping satisfaction and success. Here is a buying service that will make your shopping tours just as quick and sure of results as were Captain Kid's own visits to his private treasure caves!

With the aid of the Shop-o-scope it's so simple and so easy to decide on suitable presents for everyone. Under the five headings, "Gifts for Her," "Gifts for Him," "Gifts for the Children," "Gifts for the Home" and "Dinner and Decorations" you'll find just the shopping ideas and directions that will mean the most successful gift-giving you've ever enjoyed—with the least possible effort.

I GUESS HE ISN'T GOING TO BOTHER TOOTS ANYMORE - SHE HASN'T HEARD FROM HIM SINCE HE RETURNED! AT THE SAME TIME HE'S LIVING TOO CLOSE TO US TO SUIT ME! HE MAY GET NERVY AGAIN SOME DAY AND TRY TO TALK TO HER ON THE PHONE OR SOMETHING! WELL, I'VE STILL GOT MY BASEBALL BAT HANDY IN CASE HE BUZZES AROUND HERE AGAIN!
GEE!! I GET SO NERVOUS EVERY TIME I STEP OUT OF THE HOUSE! I MIGHT BUMP INTO MY SLAVE ANYTIME! IF I SHOULD ACCIDENTLY MEET HIM I WON'T BE RUDE TO HIM! I'D HAVE TO SHAKE HANDS WITH HIM! JUST SUPPOSE I SHOULD BE TALKING TO HIM FOR A MINUTE, AND CASPER WOULD COME BY AND SEE US! THERE'S NO TELLING WHAT CASPER WOULD DO! I ALMOST WISH MY SLAVE LIVED SOMEWHERE ELSE!
OUR HUNCH IS THAT THE DEVOTED SLAVE IS STILL MADLY IN LOVE WITH TOOTS!
WHAT DO YOU THINK?
JIMMY MURPHY

JERRY ON THE JOB — TAKE NO CHANCES — BY HOBAN

GENTLEMEN - THIS IS A BIG HEARTED RAIL-ROAD. WE'VE NEVER PINCHED A BINDLE STIFF OR SHOT A HOBO - STILL, OUR CHOOCHOOS HAVE BEEN SLOWING UP AND WE'D LIKE TO ASK YOU BOYS TO STOP DRAGGING YOUR FEET WHEN YOU'RE RIDING OUR RODS - WHADDAYASAY?
OK
O SURE.
GENTLEMEN OF THE ROAD? THAT'S WHAT THEY ARE.
I WAS JUST TALKING TO A BUNCH OF HOBOES AND BELIEVE ME, THEIR WORD IS AS GOOD AS THEIR BOND.
YEAH?
NEXT TIME TAKE THE BONDS.

KEEP WARM AND COZY

PROTECT THE FAMILY'S HEALTH WITH SUFFICIENT HEAT—CHEAT THE DOCTOR

We all like to be comfortable. Maybe you've discovered that your furnace is not what it used to be—or perhaps in the late evening you've found that the house gets a little cool for you and the kiddies.

We've this to say—a furnace or a stove can be bought right now—or an oil burner—and the remedy for those cool rooms in the evening is a neat electric or gas heater. Think it over—heating costs are cheaper than doctor bills.

MASSACHUSETTS RIVER TO BE WORKED FOR GOLD

Attlemore, Mass—Hailing back to the days of 49 when hardy prospectors journeyed to California to wash streams for gold, a refining company here is preparing to wash the banks of Ten Mile River for gold and silver

For more than fifty years jewelry manufacturing plants have been operating beside the river and it is estimated that thousands of dollars of gold and silver dust have blown into the stream Two acres of swamp land are being dug up and ore sifted for the precious metals

After the Candles Have Burned Out...

The many little gifts of sentiment, that bespeak friendships and happy associations, are vital to the spirit of Christmas.

But after the candles have burned out, after ordinary gifts have been laid aside, then the Maytag will more and more reveal itself as the outstanding gift—practical, helpful, a joy for years to come.

Plan together for this practical gift—the Maytag. Let it be the crowning, lasting remembrance of the yuletide.

The seamless cast-aluminum tub and gyrafoam action, which revolutionized washing speed and thoroughness; the new type Roller Water Remover, so safe, handy, efficient and careful; the silent, precision-cut steel gears; these and other Maytag qualities give it lasting value, make it the perfect gift.
